RELIEF CAMPS INQUIRY ORDERED IN B.C.

Commission Named By Ottawa To Look Into All Complaints Registered

Hon. W. Macdonald, Former Justice of B.C. Supreme Court, C. T. McHattie and Rev. E. D. Braden, Vancouver Men, Appointed By Order-in-Council To-day

Men Had Planned April 4 Walk-out

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 1.—Conditions in relief camps for single unemployed men in British Columbia will be investigated by a commission appointed under the Inquiries Act, Minister of Defence Grote Stirling announced to-day in the House of Commons.

The commission will be composed of former Justice W. A. Macdonald of the British Columbia Supreme Court, chairman; Charles T. McHattie and Rev. E. D. Braden, all of Vancouver.

Appointment of the commission was approved in an order-in-council signed to-day. It follows numerous complaints against management and administration of camps maintained in British Columbia, as in all the provinces, to care for unmarried transient unemployed. The situation in the British Columbia camps has been subject to much discussion in the House of Commons.

WIDE SCOPE

The commission will have power and instructions to "inquire into conditions obtaining and say and all complaints which have been made with respect to the administration and management of the camps established by the Department of National Defence in British Columbia, and to report on such matters with all due speed." It will sit in such places in British Columbia as may be deemed necessary for the purposes of the inquiry.

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 1.—Charges of "plots to destroy the camps," made by Hon. Grote Stirling, Minister of National Defence, in the House of Commons last Friday evening, are denied in a statement issued by a committee of the Relief Camp Workers' Union, but the statement intimates the men will walk out April 4.

The statement is signed by E. Cumber, Matthew Shaw and John Watts. "The Relief Camp Workers' Union has been the organization of the workers in the camps for over three years," the statement declares. "It organized and led the strike of last December, when definite promises were made that the intolerable conditions in the camps would be thoroughly investigated. No investigation has been held. . . .

"The record of the National Defence . . . is replete with blacklistings, jailings and discrimination. It is in protest against such treatment that the men will walk out on April 4.

TAKE RESPONSIBILITY

War Debate In Commons At Ottawa

Commons Asked About Course of This Country

Henri Bourassa, Pointing to Dangers in Europe, Says Peace of Whole World Threatened

Dominions Informed Of Britain's Policy

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 1.—The gravity of the position in Europe which he said "threatened the peace of the whole world" was called to the attention of the House of Commons to-day by Henri Bourassa, Independent, Labelle, Que.

Mr. Bourassa wanted to know what Canada would do in the event of an outbreak of war in Europe involving Great Britain.

The debate was injected into the proceedings of the House in the form of an amendment which Mr. Bourassa made to a motion of Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, for the House to go into committee of supply.

PEACE PACT

Mr. Bourassa proposed a resolution confirming Canada's adherence to the Paris peace pact and calling on the government to do everything possible to further peace either through the "League of Nations or otherwise."

TRIBUTE TO KING

"The Canadian statesman who has done most to stand by the cause of peace, not only in words but in deeds," said Mr. Bourassa, "is the present Leader of the Opposition (Mr. King).

Mr. King's firm stand at the time of the Chanak incident in 1922 had been a great service not only to Canada but to the British Empire as a whole. He had had the courage to oppose the frantic demands of two British cabinet ministers and widespread clamor in Canada. This clamor Mr. Bourassa described as the last "echo of dying imperialism."

Mr. Bourassa outlined the history of Canada's membership in the League of Nations and its association with various moves in the direction of permanent peace. He maintained Canada by act and deed had always acted fully in accord with the spirit of the pact renouncing war as an instrument of national policy.

STRONG INFLUENCE

The time had come now, he said, to reaffirm and make good those declarations of peaceful intentions. Canada might be a weak nation physically, but was strong in influence because it was a nation unfettered by any alliance with any other power "body or unbody."

PREMIER GOES TO MAINLAND

Hon. A. Wells Gray Also in Vancouver; Dr. K. C. MacDonald Back

To attend to governmental matters on the mainland, Premier Pattullo left yesterday evening for Vancouver. He is expected back here Wednesday.

Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, is also absent from his office to-day, on the mainland.

Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, returned to-day after a post-sessional visit to his riding of North Okanagan. While in the Interior Dr. MacDonald visited the annual Kamloops bull sale and addressed boards of trade.

Two members of cabinet are expected to go east shortly. Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, will discuss with the Ottawa authorities financial arrangements between the provincial and federal governments for the year.

Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, will leave in about two weeks to take up health and social service questions in eastern Canada.

Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, is expected to make a trip to northern parts of the province. The date of his departure has not yet been fixed.

Rail Workers' Pay Is Raised

Washington, April 1.—The beginning of April brought a bit of cheer to-day to the men who work for the railroads in United States. A 5 per cent pay boost for the employees—500,000 of them—went into effect. The total rise is estimated at $60,000,000 a year.

The boost results from an agreement growing out of a 1932 cut in pay.

ZOO OPERATORS FOOL FOOLERS

Associated Press

Philadelphia, April 1. — To fool would-be April foolers, who for years have given more trouble than the elephants, the telephone company to-day came to the rescue of the zoo.

Three special operators were assigned to the administration office switchboard where they informed all who called for "Mr. Fox or Mr. Lyon" that they were talking to the zoo, and then hung up.

TRIPLETS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Though fewer in number and less famous than Ontario's Dionne quintuplets, triplets born in Sharon, Pennsylvania, are attracting a great deal of attention. The two boys, shown at the right, above, with their mother, Mrs. John Gudich, were born thirty-six hours after the girl, shown at the left, was born. All are doing well, state the doctors, who were surprised by the unusual case.

New Solidarity Conference Note

While mayors of Canada and the people generally await action from Ottawa on the resolutions presented there last week, they have the satisfaction of knowing there is a new solidarity in the opinion of municipal leaders throughout Canada, according to views expressed by Mayor Leeming.

Reporting on the conference, the mayor, who returned to Victoria yesterday afternoon from Seattle, following a transcontinental plane journey from Montreal, was particularly impressed with the unanimity shown by the different civic leaders in their presentation of arguments on matters they studied.

"I believe the conference will have very far-reaching effects," the mayor stated. "Whatever else comes of it, it has been a marvelous demonstration of solidarity of opinion both east and west.

SAME PROBLEM

"The conference showed that the problem is similar throughout the breadth of the Dominion. Some of the cities are probably in a better condition than others, but speaking generally the problem is one and the same.

"In other words, municipalities are not able to carry the burden of unemployment relief which, in the unanimous opinion of all present at the conference, is a national and not a municipal or provincial obligation.

"The resolution on unemployment relief pointed out very clearly that unemployment is a national emergency, and therefore a national responsibility.

Want More For Island Roads

Chamber of Commerce Proposes to Request Additional Public Works Funds

Representations from all sections of Vancouver Island to have the provincial government allot more than the previously announced 16 per cent of the $3,000,000 public works appropriation, for work on island roads, was proposed by Chamber of Commerce directors at their luncheon in Spencer's dining-room to-day.

The chamber will appoint a special committee which will seek confirmation of the announcement that only 16 per cent of the grant would come to the island after which it is proposed to start the move in other centres towards securing more. It was suggested a delegation representative of all island towns would see the government.

The directors felt strongly over this question because of the fact that the island was reported to produce one-third of the revenue from roads. It was also felt essential that more should be spent here because of the development of tourist trade.

NEW SCHEME FOR INFIRM

Centralization of All City Cases in Former Jubilee Nurses' Home Urged

Housing of all Victoria's infirm indigents under one roof, in the former nurses' home at the Jubilee Hospital, is being sought by Alderman J. D. Hunter, chairman of the city health committee. Provided his scheme is accepted, he sees in the plan the solution of all the city's difficulties in that matter.

The premises would afford accommodation for at least forty cases and could be used by fifty at a pinch, Dr. Hunter stated in giving details of his plan.

After lengthy study of the question, Alderman Hunter is of the opinion his proposal would find a remedy for the vexed question. In no way detracting from the care given the patients by the private institutions in which they are at present, Dr. Hunter believes the centralization of all cases would work to far greater advantage.

"At present the city patients are spread around the city in private nursing homes. To me that is most unsatisfactory," he stated.

BENEFITS

Under his plan they would receive hospital food and little difficulty would be found when any one of them required special medical attention. Living in quarters right next to the hospital they could be transferred from the home to the hospital on a stretcher, without the trouble of an ambulance and would have immediate access to specialists in the hospital.

The patients at present cost the city about $7,200 a year, Dr. Hunter pointed out. He believed some economy could be effected by bringing them under the same roof.

FROST STRIKES BELATED BLOW

Slight Damage to Flower and Vegetable Gardens; Berry Crops Affected

Early risers in Victoria this morning were somewhat surprised to discover a fairly severe frost during the night had hardened the ground and done slight damage to berry and vegetable plants. Records at Gonzales Observatory showed the temperature dropped to 2 degrees below freezing on the ground and 2 degrees above in the standard screen.

F. Napier Denison, director of the observatory, stated to-day there was no indication of continued cold, although there may be additional light frosts overnight.

Yesterday evening's snap was of short duration, the coldest temperature not being recorded until after 5 o'clock this morning. In the interior however there was continued freezing weather. Vancouver had an experience similar to Victoria's.

LITTLE DAMAGE

The frost may have a bad effect on loganberries and early potatoes, but otherwise did little damage, according to a survey of farms and gardens made by The Times.

The loganberries are in bud and the cold may have affected them, said H. E. Tander, Keating farmer. The successive white frosts experienced during the last few weeks may have hardened the vines, he said.

Strawberries are not sufficiently advanced to have been damaged. On most plantations throughout the peninsula these plants are not even in bud yet.

All tree fruits are backward, and the spring's frosty weather has probably been a blessing in disguise, as too early a season is not considered good.

Many gardeners complained that potatoes which had been planted early and were just above the ground had been badly nipped.

A black frost on April 1 is most unusual, according to G. A. Vantreight, Gordon Head farmer. In that

INTERPRETER IS GIVEN DISMISSAL

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 1.—Dismissal of Bodhuin Protich, interpreter of Balkan, Russian, Polish and German languages in police court here since 1919, was announced to-day.

No reason for the dismissal was given by authorities other than it resulted from a complaint made by an alien who had been an informant in a confidence game case recently.

Public Works Plan Soon Before M.P.'s

Reported Government's Scheme Will Include Aid in Building of Railway Rolling Stock

Ottawa, April 1.—It is now intimated the government will shortly introduce a public works scheme on a far greater scale than thus far attempted. The housing committee of the Commons is still sitting, but work is going on with its report and it will be ready for presentation shortly. Recommendations contained therein may form part of the programme.

Not only will the Public Works Construction Act of last year be extended and elaborated, but the new measure will take in other lines of industrial activity which may be related in the interests of general employment, it is stated. It is intended to act authority by government operation with industrial manufacturing rolling stock and other rail equipment, the measure to cover any legislative action that may arise from the report of the Commons committee on housing.

During the last six months there has been a great deal of study given the matter of new rail equipment needed by both the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific systems and reports were current the government would assist in obtaining such orders for the equipment makers by guaranteeing bank loans on the same basis that rail orders were given the Algoma and Sydney steel plants last year.

Wells Foresees U.S. Revolution

New York, April 1.—H. G. Wells, British novelist, was en route across the Atlantic to-day, but he left behind the prediction of a coming revolution in the United States.

"I think there will be a revolution in this country," said Mr. Wells, concluding a visit of several weeks from Britain. "But it won't be Communist or Fascist. It will be thoroughly American." The leader of the revolt, he said, would not be Senator Huey Long.

The author said he believed Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit is preaching a proletarian revolution.

DIAMOND SALE PRICE $500,000

London, April 1.—Negotiations were under way here to-day for the sale of the fourth largest diamond in the world, the famous Jonker, at a reported price of about $500,000. New Trial For Alabama Negroes

Associated Press

Washington, April 1.—A new trial was ordered by the United States Supreme Court to-day in the case of death sentence imposed on Clarence Norris and Haywood Patterson, negroes convicted of assaulting a white woman near Scottsboro, Alabama.

The opinion was delivered by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

The negroes, centre of litigation since 1931, contended they had been deprived of constitutional rights because they were indicted by a grand jury and found guilty by a trial jury from which members of their race had been systematically excluded.

Pope Declares Against War

Pontiff Prays No Nation Will Commit Great Crime of Causing Hostilities

Associated Press

Vatican City, April 1.—War Pope Pius told the twenty cardinals gathered at a secret consistory to-day, "would be so enormous a crime, so foolish a manifestation of fury, we believe it absolutely impossible."

The Pontiff, speaking with tremendous emphasis, said: "We cannot in fact persuade ourselves that those who should have at heart the prosperity and well-being of peoples should be willing to push to suicide, to ruin and to extermination not only of their own nation but a great part of humanity."

At another point he said: "To us, as to many others, there is manifest the physical and material impossibility of war in the present most serious circumstance."

Preceding said the allocution was one of the strongest speeches Pio Nono has ever made and that his audience remained rigid throughout the solemn address.

H. however, there is someone who wishes to commit "this nefarious crime," then, the Holy Father said, he could do nothing else than pray to God to "destroy those peoples who desire war."

Those who intend to make donations are asked to do so at their earliest convenience as the fund will be closed in ten days.

Leader of Herders on Famous Arctic Trek in Alberta on Way Home to Seattle

Edmonton, April 1.—Like a man from another world, Andrew Bahr, seventy-year-old reindeer herder, is in Edmonton to-day from the Far North. He is like a man from another world—a world of ice and snow and reindeer herds that range for days at a time along the Arctic coast.

At the Edmonton airport yesterday he stepped from an airplane piloted by Archie McMullen of the Canadian Airways, and for the first time in five years saw a white man's city—a city of modern homes and streets, motor cars and electric cars.

The little stooped man, almost as broad as he is tall, recently completed a task that has been hailed as an epic of the north—the managed trek of a great herd of reindeer for 1,500 miles along the ice-ribbed Arctic coast from western Alaska to the new reindeer reserve east of the Mackenzie delta, established by the Canadian Government to provide food and clothing for impoverished Canadian Eskimos.

Russia Supports Security Proposals

Stalin Agrees With Eden of Britain Countries Should Proceed With Collective Scheme Even If Germany Holds Back

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Moscow, April 1.—Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden sped toward Warsaw to-day in quest of further bulwarks for peace, leaving behind in Moscow an agreement with Joseph Stalin that the nations of Europe should build for security whether Germany collaborates or not.

A joint communique issued just prior to the British diplomat's departure yesterday evening disclosed that he and the Soviet dictator concurred that the Anglo-French peace plan conclusion at London should be made the basis for preserving Europe's stability.

"Loyalty to obligations" as members of the League of Nations was fixed as the guiding rule for mutual relations and the "spirit of collaboration" between Russia and Great Britain.

The communique said all parties in the conference, finished Saturday, were of the opinion "it is more than ever necessary to pursue the endeavor to promote the building up of a system of collective security in Europe as contemplated in the Anglo-French communique of February 3 and in conformity with the League of Nations."

The communique stated Russia and Great Britain had found "that there was at present no conflict of interests between the two governments and that this fact provides a firm foundation for development of fruitful collaboration between them in the cause of peace."

Eden Goes To Poles' Capital

Pilsudski at Warsaw Will Listen to Eastern Europe Security Proposals

Associated Press

Warsaw, Poland, April 1.—Opposition to any attempt to link Poland into the proposed eastern security pact seemed certain to-day to confront Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden when he arrived here to-night for his discussions with Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, the Polish dictator.

Hostility to the projected eastern pact, which Russia favors and Germany opposes, is frequently voiced in semi-official circles on the grounds it might possibly result in Poland becoming a battlefield for the other powers.

Referring to Mr. Eden's impending visit, the official Gazeta Polska said: "Mr. Eden, who has seen opposite viewpoints regarding the eastern pact in Berlin and Moscow, will be able to understand better the situation and the policy of a country located between two large countries having such divergent problems and attitudes."

PEACE DECLARATION

The aged dictator may content himself to-morrow with only a brief declaration of Poland's desire for peace or enter into detailed proposals conduct will prevail in the coming struggle.

"On the other hand, if the government allows the National Defence to fortify these camps with armed forces prior to the walk-out, a preventive act in itself, this may drive weaker elements to resort to the very deeds they are allegedly seeking to prevent."

A number of men from the camps marched into Vancouver last December in protest against the "blacklist" system and other alleged injustices. Most of the men were returned to the camps within a few days.

Want More For Island Roads

The move started with a resolution from the Nanaimo Board of Trade which requested endorsation of a request to have the government improve island highways. This was given the support of the local body.

R. H. B. Ker did not think it was right that the Island should receive only 16 per cent of the allocation. He suggested the government be asked to reconsider the apportioning of the funds.

Frank H. Partridge thought the chamber would do well to also introduce the matter of having the highways hard surfaced.

George McGregor pointed out that if something was not done with the roads at once it would require considerably more than the 16 per cent to repair them in the future.

Eden Goes To Poles' Capital

for meeting the Memel and Pomorze minorities problems.

Memel, which some Nazis are known to look on with covetous eyes, was described by a Foreign Office attache as "something not involving Poland intimately but nevertheless too close to home to be comfortable."

The minorities question has long troubled Poland since it is estimated 30 per cent of her population is of non-Polish extraction.

CORRIDOR POPULATION

Poles declare fervidly, however, that the Pomorze (the Polish Corridor) is more Polish than any other part of the country and that no problem exists there as far as Poland is concerned.

The feeling prevails in some circles that Mr. Eden may be bringing from Berlin some suggestion for readjustment of the territorial status of Pomorze, Danzig or Memel.

SECURITY PACT

Warsaw, April 1.—A Foreign Office spokesman said Poland would not be interested in any modification of the proposed eastern European security pact which Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal, may suggest after he arrives here to-night, but is opposed to the proposal in its present form.

Said the spokesman: "We shall listen carefully to all Captain Eden brings from Berlin and Moscow, particularly regarding the eastern proposal as a peace guarantee, although as it stands so far, we are opposed to it."

It was reported that Reichsführer Hitler of Germany had left the door open regarding such an agreement during his conversations with Mr. Eden and Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary.

RUSSIA SUPPORTS SECURITY PLANS

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Particular emphasis was placed on the League of Nations. The communique said Mr. Eden had informed Mr. Litvinoff concerning his talks with Chancellor Adolf Hitler in Berlin and that "it was agreed that these talks had helped to clarify the European situation."

The official Russian press declared Hitler had turned down all the proposals put forth by the British in the Berlin discussions.

SECURITY DEMANDED

The communique, in the opinion of observers, indicated the British were ready to lend their support to a European security arrangement whether Germany participates or not. It made clear, however, Germany will have an opportunity to enter the arrangement if she wishes.

"It was emphasized in the conversations (with Mr. Eden) by Stalin, Molotoff and Litvinoff," said the communique, "that the organization of security in eastern Europe and the proposed pact of mutual assistance do not aim at isolation or encirclement of any state, but at the creation of equal security for all participants, and that the participation in the pact of Germany and Poland would therefore be welcomed as affording the best solution to the problem."

SPIRIT OF COLLABORATION

It said both countries, recognizing the integrity and prosperity of each are to the advantage of the other, will govern their mutual relations in that spirit of collaboration and loyalty to the obligations assumed by them which is inherent in their common membership in the League of Nations."

SMOKE SCREEN

Michael Tukhachevsky, Vice-Commissar of Defence, charged in an article published in the newspaper Pravda German's militaristic pronouncements against Soviet Russia were a screen for concealing Hitler's plans for revenge on France, Belgium and Czechoslovakia.

The Vice-Commissar warned France is not prepared to act quickly against a German air attack, estimating Germany has 2,100 bombardment and reconnaissance planes and 1,800 fighting and auxiliary planes, a total of 3,700.

He estimated the Reich's air force at 60,000 men, with another 60,000 in training, and said there was talk of plans to increase the number of planes in Germany to 16,000.

He declared Germany this summer would have an army of 840,000, exceeding the French army by 40 per cent and almost as large as the Soviet army, which he placed at 940,000.

The Vice-Commissar charged Hitler was "lulling France to sleep" with anti-Soviet war talk in the hope France would not realize her own peril and Germany's increasing armaments.

Russia's next important visitor will be Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France, who will come here after the League Council meeting.

Maxim Litvinoff, Russian Foreign Minister, and possibly Eduard Benes, Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, will follow him to Moscow, it is understood.

AIDS COLLECTIVE PLANS

London, April 1.—Preliminary reports from Rt. Hon Anthony Eden, now en route to Warsaw after the security discussions at Moscow, have revealed wide divergencies between the German and Russian viewpoints, it was learned to-day.

Russia, since she entered the League of Nations, has become a strong advocate of the collective security ideal favored by France and Great Britain. She would like both to strengthen and extend the collective system. With this, the German view is widely at variance.

When the Lord Privy Seal returns, the Cabinet will carefully review the whole situation. Until the three-power conference at Stresa, Italy, April 11, British policy will neither be defined nor divulged.

Official quarters stated to-day Mr. Eden had reported to the government the British and Russian views on the creation of a collective security system for Europe were "identical." The Russians, like Great Britain, were said to hope Germany will finally decide to participate in the system.

It was rumored Russia might be invited to the coming conference at Stresa, but officials said that was unlikely.

GERMAN ARMY PLAN SPEEDED

When Organization Complete 8,500,000 Will Be on Call, Say Dispatches

Berlin, April 1.—Laws for organization of the new Reich military force—setting up a war machine almost identical with that of 1914—are expected to be issued soon, an informed source declared to-day.

The new German army, formation of which was officially announced in Chancellor Adolf Hitler's proclamation of March 16, will have 500,000 men continually under the colors. The Reichswehr ministry has been busy drawing up plans since that date.

Gen. Erich Ludendorff and Gen. Hans von Seeckt, the latter also a Great War commander and organizer of the new Chinese army, are mentioned as possible members of the new high command when it is organized.

FUNDS PROVIDED

Although an official communique following the cabinet meeting failed to mention other measures dealing with the new army, it was believed plans were presented at that time by Gen. Werner von Blomberg, Reichswehr minister.

Compulsory service for all German men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five who are physically capable is the basis of the new army system. They will serve first in the active army, then in the active reserve, and finally in the landwehr. The class of 1915—twenty-year-old youths—will be mobilized first. This class is estimated at 600,000, of whom it is expected 300,000 will enter active service.

GREAT TOTAL

London, April 1.—British press dispatches say 8,500,000 men are likely to be called up for military training in Adolf Hitler's aggressive campaign for a "Germany rearmed."

Young Germans from the class of 1915, totaling 580,000, were reporting to-day for medical examinations at barracks throughout the Reich, under the military conscription law of March 16, said information received here.

AGED MAN KILLS WIFE AND SELF

Seattle, April 1.—Police to-day said Willard M. Perkins, seventy, Chicago banker, shot and killed his sixty-five-year-old wife, then shot himself to death.

Illness, police said, was the reason for the shootings.

A housekeeper, Lillian Bookholt, in the Assembly Hotel, where the Perkins lived, discovered the bodies when she went to their room to inquire about Mrs. Perkins, who had been suffering from headaches, she said.

A note found by officials believed was written by Perkins, said "We have reached the end of the road." It asked the Variety Club, Chicago, be notified of the deaths.

Bahr Of Reindeer Fame At Edmonton

SLOW TO SPEAK

Attired in a blue canvas jumper over his furs, cloth cap and fur mukluks, Bahr was met at the airport by his lawyer, Edward D. Phelan, newspapermen and photographers. He spoke not a word of greeting to anyone and appeared for a time to suit the description of "a man from another world."

It was as if the words spoken by those around him were in a strange tongue.

His lawyer handed him a letter, saying, "This is from your wife, Andy." He took it mechanically. It was a message from his wife in Seattle, whom he has not seen in five years.

Agreeably he posed for several photographs when requested by a cameraman. His broad face, burned red-brown by searing winds and the glare of the Arctic on limitless wastes of snow, broke into a smile as he stood patiently while the cameraman snapped the shutter.

In Edmonton the transition from [illegible] dressed elderly gentleman was rapid. By special arrangement he was taken yesterday to a shoe store and a clothing store where he was outfitted in modern garb from head to foot, ready to continue his journey to Seattle, where a big welcome has been planned. The mayor of Seattle has proclaimed "Andrew Bahr Day" for the date of his arrival at the Coast city.

Long years of virtual solitude in the Arctic have made Bahr uncommunicative. When he does speak, he speaks in guttural monosyllables and is somewhat hard of hearing.

INFORMATION FROM BRITAIN

London, April 1.—Every effort is made to keep the governments of the Dominions informed of the policy and action of the United Kingdom Government in foreign affairs, said Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominions, replying to a questioner in the House of Commons to-day.

While he was not entitled to speak for the Dominion governments, Mr. Thomas told Aneurin Bevan he could say there was no indication the Dominion governments dissented from the general foreign policy which the British Government was pursuing.

CONFERENCE QUOTED

Mr. Bevan asked whether the United Kingdom Government had consulted the government of the Dominions before issuing its new famous white paper on the necessity for increased defences.

Mr. Thomas referred to decisions of the Imperial Conference, saying they were clear and definite that no empire government could involve another empire government in war, but that every opportunity was taken to inform the Dominion governments of every step that was taken.

BELGIAN STOCK MARKETS REOPEN

Associated Press

Brussels, April 1.—Three royal decrees to make effective the programme of Premier Paul Van Zeeland under the so-called "full powers" granted him until April 1, last, were published in the official gazette to-day.

The decrees authorize the government to proceed with conversion of long and short term internal and external loans of the Belgian Congo, alterations in legislation governing state allotments, to indemnities, subsidies and pensions, regulate monetary circulation and reform taxes.

Belgium's new francs, meanwhile valued at 72 per cent of its former gold parity, stood its first test of the markets received after being closed since last Wednesday.

district the very early plums which were in bloom will have no fruit this year.

The frost may have hurt the bulbs, but any accurate estimate of the damage done to these flowers could not be made until at least twelve hours after the frost.

At Sidney, H. M. Straight, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station, reports that there was hardly any frost in North Saanich. The official thermometer had a low of only 33 degrees during the night.

However, in the valleys some frost was reported though not sufficient to do any damage.

"Plants are making so little progress on account of the cold weather that very little damage could have been done," Mr. Straight said. "The ground out here is cold and wet, and no one has done much gardening yet. The spring is two weeks behind normal years, and at least four weeks behind last year."

Vancouver Man Sent For Trial

J. Bova to Appear at Assizes; Wife Was Shot to Death

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 1.—James Bova, charged with shooting his wife, Rosilla, to death February 22, was committed for trial by Magistrate H. S. Wood to-day.

J. B. Nicholson, defence counsel, stated arrangements had been made for Bova to appear at the fall session of the assize court. In the meantime he will be held at the Oakalla prison farm.

Empty cartridge cases, cartridges and fragments of lead were entered in to-day's hearing by Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance of the police science bureau.

Inspector Vance held one of two cartridges found under Bova's house and which had been in a revolver and had misfired, had not been in the death weapon. The weapon used in the shooting, a .38 calibre revolver, has never been found.

Two additional witnesses were called to-day, both employees of a local sporting goods store. The first witness identified Bova as a man who had bought a .38 calibre revolver from him on the day previous to the murder. The other clerk said Bova resembled the purchaser of ammunition, but declared he could not be positive in his identification.

Long Flight Record Broken

He left Fort Darwin, Australia, at 8.05 a.m., March 22, completing the journey in an elapsed time of seven days nineteen hours fifty minutes.

The previous unofficial record, held by C. J. Melrose, an Australian, was eight days and nine hours, established last September. The official record time, set by Capt. James Mollison, in 1931, was eight days, twenty-two hours.

BRITAIN WATCHES GERMAN AIR FORCE

London, April 1.—There is "good reason to believe," the British Broadcasting Corporation said yesterday, "The German air force has now attained equality with our own."

This was the intent of a series of statements and certain following publication in a newspaper Friday of a report that Adolf Hitler had told Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, Germany's air force was numerically superior to Britain's.

Death Warning Date Passes

Insurance Men in Britain Gain on Gypsy's Hitler Rumor

Associated Press

London, April 1.—The mysterious warning that death was imminent for Reichsführer Hitler, reportedly made by a gypsy a month ago, turned out to be an April Fool joke to-day for all concerned except possibly the London insurance companies. The underwriters were reported to have cleared up several thousand dollars "easy money" on the strength of the tale.

Several British firms trading in Germany were told to have decided to take out insurance after the gypsy story began to circulate. The premiums demanded were small, one insurance broker said, and after a while the scare died down.

It has since been learned, brokers reported, that similar predictions, likewise said to have emanated from gypsies, were circulated elsewhere in Europe — in Belgium, France, Spain and Germany.

Canadian Press

Toronto, April 1. — Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn introduced a bill in the Ontario Legislature to-day declaring power purchase contracts with Quebec power companies are "illegal, void and unenforceable."

The hydro will buy what power is necessary from the Gatineau Power Company, but the contracts with the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company, the Ottawa Valley Power Company and the Maclaren-Quebec Company will be terminated when the bill goes through.

Bennett May Be in Seat in Commons Before Easter Holiday

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 1. — The House of Commons to-day looked forward to further light on the question of the Easter adjournment. While Sir George Perley, acting government leader, may not be prepared to announce if the government proposes to ask for a long adjournment, he will probably do so within the next ten days.

In the meantime optimistic reports on the progress of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett continue to come from his apartment. He is expected to leave his bed this week, according to a bulletin issued to-day by his attending physician, Dr. R. S. Stevens. The bulletin read:

"The Prime Minister's convalescence has proceeded satisfactorily and without incident during the last week. It is expected he will leave his bed some day this week."

Mr. Bennett may even be able to appear in the House briefly before Easter.

NO MERGER OF RAILWAYS

Manion Tells Fort Williamites No C.N.R.-C.P.R. Union Planned

Canadian Press

Fort William, April 1. — Assurance the Canadian railway problem is not beyond solution, coupled with a warning blunders must be avoided, is given the nation by Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals.

Accepting the unanimous Conservative nomination in the Fort William federal constituency, Saturday evening, Dr. Manion outlined the railway history of Canada, pointed to mistakes, cited economies and declared improved trade was vital to welfare of the railways.

NO AMALGAMATION

Amalgamation of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways would be detrimental to the whole of Canada and impose a monopoly of such proportions that it would be a menace economically and politically, he said. The government, he declared, had no intention of amalgamating the lines.

Excessive expenditure by the management of the Canadian National Railways between 1923 and 1930 had placed a heavy burden of debt on the system, said Dr. Manion. In competition with the government lines, the Canadian Pacific had squandered money also, and the two railways found themselves in serious difficulties. But, he said, there was this difference: The Canadian Pacific was privately owned and could go into liquidation, while the Canadian National could not.

YEAR'S DEFICIT

Last year the Canadian National has just earned operating expenses, but there was bond interest to be met, which left a deficit of $27,000,000. It had been stated the real deficit was $60,000,000, but more than $30,000,000 of this was interest owing to the government, which would never be paid, so that it was merely a nominal charge.

He had come to Fort William, he said, to endeavor to show why economies had been forced on the railway. The economies had to be made or the railway, and possibly the Dominion, would have wrecked. For ten years the railway had earned $35,000,000 a year. With the economies now in effect, if it again began to earn that sum, there would be a net profit of $40,000,000 to apply against the present deficit of $27,000,000, "and we could forget the balance of $17,000,000 in our renewed prosperity."

At the same time, said Dr. Manion, it had to be remembered these railways developed the country.

With a real revival in business such as seemed to be on the way, having begun over a year ago, Dr. Manion was very optimistic about the outlook, not only for the railways but for Canada generally.

McGeer May Run In Ontario

Considers Proposal He Be Liberal Candidate There For Commons

Toronto, April 1.—Gerald G. McGeer, K.C., Mayor of Vancouver, and one of the Vancouver members of the British Columbia Legislature, says he has been asked to run in Ontario as a Liberal candidate in the coming federal election.

"I am seriously considering the proposition," he admitted after his arrival here yesterday "and there is a very strong likelihood that I may accept."

Asked what riding he might run in, Mr. McGeer said none had been definitely mentioned, but, he added, "they'll find one for me."

SAYS OTTAWA WILL ACT

Mayor McGeer is confident the federal government will concede "everything" of the Canadian mayors' conference three-point demands and even "that considerably more will be undertaken."

"I don't know just how soon that will be, but if not before the coming general election, then certainly right after it," he said.

The tall Irish westerner repeated his stand with regard to Vancouver. All the taxes that can be collected will be used first in maintaining the services and needs of the city, he said. Anything left over will go toward interest on the bonds, he said.

Mayor McGeer was convinced the depression could be broken in twenty-four hours by placing the credit of the nation at the disposal of the national, provincial and municipal governments. "There is far more work crying to be done than there are people to do it," he said.

SPEAKS IN CHURCH

Addressing the congregation of Erskine United Church yesterday evening, Mayor McGeer said that Canadians, guilty of worshipping false gods, had been punished by the chaos and horror of the depression.

"Our system of government is not Christian," he said. "It is definitely Roman. It is set up to promote the privileges of monopoly, under which a few can exploit and thrive on the multitude. No pagan civilization has suffered more than Canada has from the worship of false gods."

USE FIRE HOSE TO STOP RIOT

Associated Press

Kaunas, Lithuania, April 1.—Streams of water from fire hoses dampened a flaming anti-German demonstration yesterday by 4,000 Lithuanian students. As the climax to a noisy march through the capital's streets, they rushed the German legation.

Police, forewarned of the demonstration, waited at the legation armed with fire hoses. The dripping students fled.

NO ALLIANCE WITH GERMANY

Japan "Cannot Think of It," Says Spokesman; May Demilitarize Siberian Frontier

Associated Press

Tokio, April 1.—A Foreign Office spokesman to-day said Japan has points of sympathetic contact with European powers seeking agreements to counteract Adolf Hitler's rearmament, and "we cannot think of any alliance with Germany."

Eiji Amau, the spokesman, avoided committing Japan to adherence either to the former European allies or to Germany, but said there would be no Far Eastern Locarno pact (said to have been considered in Anglo-Russian conversations).

He stressed Japan's aloofness from the European crisis, but quoted Tokio's position on it as follows:

1. Japan is ready to discuss with Soviet Russia some degree of demilitarization of Far Eastern frontiers.

2. Japan considers her 1907 entente with France still valid, although "of rather vague significance" since the Great War.

3. "We cannot think of any alliance with Germany."

MIGHT MOVE FORCES

Diplomatic quarters expressed belief an agreement on demilitarization of the Siberian-Manchukuan frontier, the possibility of which Amau mentioned, would afford the Soviet security in the Orient, permitting her to transfer a considerable portion of the Siberian garrisons to Europe.

Its practical effects would be almost the same as a formal non-aggression treaty, which Japan thus far is not ready to conclude, and despite Japan's professed aloofness to alignments with European countries, would bolster powers seeking to restrict German rearmament.

Mavin Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, was quoted by Japanese correspondents in Moscow as indicating a willingness to discuss the question.

The crash hurled the men out of the car.

Stalin Seen As Negotiator

Russian Leader's Direct Talks With Eden Show Him in New Role

The following story by Stanley P. Richardson was written on the basis of information gathered while he was chief of bureau at Moscow for the Associated Press:

Washington, April 1.—For the first time, Joseph Stalin, Russia's man of steel, has emerged openly and officially as an individual actor in the international political drama. The curtain was rolled back by his talks in Moscow with Rt. Hon. Eden of Great Britain.

Hitherto, although all of Russia and the world knew Stalin's was the hand that shaped the Bolshevik government's policies and ruled the country, he sought persistently to foster the opposite belief abroad.

Unlike other dictators—Mussolini, Hitler, Kemal Pasha—Stalin delegated to subordinates the task of making public utterances on foreign policy, except in extremely rare instances, and never was known before to negotiate on vital issues openly and personally with a foreign representative. He has forbidden Russians to call him dictator.

STRONG REASON

There has been one compelling reason for Stalin's attitude in this respect, aside from considerations of personal modesty. That was the necessity of backing the official Bolshevik assertion to the world at large that the Communist Internationale had no connection with the Soviet government. That agency, formed for the avowed purpose of promoting world revolution, has been embarrassing on more than one occasion to leaders of the Bolshevik government. This was particularly true in earlier years while they were striving for recognition as a world power.

As secretary-general of the All-Russian Community Party—his only title—Stalin is the titular head of the sole political group in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republic. Thus, as every Russian knows well, he is the dominating figure of the government by virtue of his leadership of the ruling party.

But besides forming all the government's policies and playing the dominating role in its administration, the Russian Communist Party also is the largest unit of the Communist Internationale, made up of the Communist parties of all countries where they exist.

This interlocking gave rise to contentions in other countries that Soviet protestations that the Communist Internationale had nothing to do with the Bolshevik government were a subterfuge.

ELEVEN DIE IN THEATRE FIRE

Thirty-six Injured During Panic in Movie House at Malatia, Turkey

Ankara, Turkey, April 1.—Eleven persons, including three women, were burned to death and thirty-six others injured in a motion picture house at Malatia, in southern Anatolia, Saturday evening while a film called "Rome in Flames" was being shown to about 100 spectators.

In panic, the audience tried to escape from the roaring flames, which completely destroyed the building.

The damage exceeded $60,000.

BRITISH TOLD OF SURPLUS

London, April 1.—The United Kingdom's national accounts for the financial year ended with yesterday show a surplus of £7,562,000 (approximately $36,500,000).

Revenue at £716,441,000 ($3,510,500,000) exceeded the estimate in the budget made by Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, by nearly £10,000,000. Expenditure at £708,879,000 ($3,473,500,000) was a little more than £3,000,000 above the estimate.

This year's figure was less than a quarter of last year's surplus of £31,147,000, but showed marked improvement over the deficit of nearly £36,000,000 two years ago.

LIBERALS HAVE PEACE PLANS

Will Work For International Concord When in Power, Says Hon. I. Mackenzie

Canadian Press

Lindsay, Ont., April 1.—The Liberal Party, if successful in the next federal election, will make a strong bid for international peace, according to Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, member of the House of Commons for Vancouver Centre.

Addressing a Liberal meeting here Saturday evening, Mr. Mackenzie declared the unrest evident throughout the world was due largely to the policy of dictatorship which was, he added, becoming more apparent in Canada under the leadership of Premier R. B. Bennett.

"A wild shot," he said, "fired by some half-crazed Communist in any of the European countries might be enough to cause a world conflict."

Mr. Mackenzie said the Liberal Party would take a firm stand against amalgamation of the Dominion's two great railway systems, and would attempt a restoration of the control of the nation's credit in the hands of the people by abolition of the Central Bank Act.

New Anti-Semitic Roumania Plan

Eleven Ex-Cabinet Members Call For Strict Measures

Bucharest, Roumania, April 1.—A violently worded anti-Semitic manifesto issued yesterday by eleven former cabinet ministers of Roumania advocates the introduction of racial correction measures in all forms of Roumanian activity.

The manifesto came in the wake of a clash Saturday night between Jewish students and ultra-Nationalist undergraduates of the university who raised a Jewish ball, smashed windows and roughly handled the dancers.

The protection measures advocated would include all trade and industry, government offices and the free professions. The measures proposed in the former ministers' manifesto are similar to the Aryan theme of the Nazi constitution in Germany, and are intended drastically to restrict the employment of Jews and other racial minorities of Roumanian citizenship.

STARVING MAN ATE HIS DOG

Tragic Story of Trapper Told By Policeman Back From Northern Patrol

A tragic story of a trapper who, with a frozen foot, was unable to move from his cabin in British Columbia's frozen northland, and was forced to eat one of his dogs in an effort to save himself from starvation, was unfolded by Constable J. V. Boys of the Telegraph Creek detachment of the Provincial Police, who returned to his headquarters this morning.

Constable Boys completed a trek of 600 miles with dog team and was too late to save the life of the trapper.

A brief radio message of twenty words told the story.

Constable Boys left his station at Telegraph Creek about three weeks ago on a northern patrol and to investigate the report that B. Jorstead, a trapper, lay seriously ill and near death.

When he reached the cabin, situated above McDame's Creek, near the Yukon border, the body of the man, the remains of the dog and the empty food cupboard told the story. The man had apparently prolonged life as long as he could in the hope that assistance would arrive in time and had even resorted to taking the life of his dog, an animal which had probably been a boon companion to him during his lonely life in the northland.

DEPARTMENTS MAKE SWITCH

Larger Accommodation For Labor Branch Offices at Parliament Buildings

Following reorganization of the Department of Labor authorized during the session, provision of better accommodation for the staffs will be made, it was learned at the Parliament Buildings this morning.

Under arrangements now being carried out, the labor department will take over the top story of the annex at the corner of Superior and Government Streets. The offices will be remodeled to house the deputy minister, minimum wage board staffs and the general departmental staff.

The fisheries department, which now occupies part of the annex, will move into the main buildings, taking over the quarters now used by the labor department.

While the alterations are under way, Assistant Commissioner of Fisheries George J. Alexander and his staff will occupy two of the sessional committee rooms adjacent to the legislative chamber.

Additional work needed to enforce minimum wage and hours of work laws is responsible for enlargement of the labor department. In the last six months the existing staff has been heavily pressed with work. It was explained, and their cramped quarters on the third floor next to the offices of Hon. George S. Pearson, the minister, have not been sufficient.

SAFE ROBBED IN VANCOUVER

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 1.—The cracking of a safe in a large wholesale fruit establishment and several house entries, netted burglars more than $1,300 in cash, negotiable stocks, jewelry and merchandise, over the week-end. An attempt to loot a second safe in a wholesale jewelry house was frustrated when the robbers received unexpected visitors and fled.

Sawing through the iron bars protecting the rear windows of the premises of Brown Brothers, wholesale fruit dealers on Water Street, and breaking the glass, safecrackers gained entry to the building, looted the safe and escaped with $171 in cash and between $600 and $900 in negotiable stocks sometime early Sunday morning.

The manager of the company discovered the looted safe, its bottom completely removed, early in the morning when he returned to the office. The small floor strongbox had been carried from its usual resting place into the big fruit refrigerator, where the thieves could work without being observed from the outside. Apparently unable to open the safe by removing the combination dial, the robbers set to work on the bottom with a drill and saw, removing it entirely.

STRUCK ON HEAD

Lung Wong, Chinese janitor of an office block on Hamilton Street, is in a hospital with a head injury after being struck Saturday evening by one of four burglars who entered the wholesale jewelry premises of Jacoby Brothers and attempted to rob the safe.

Three men made their way into the building, leaving another on guard in the hallway. Lung was struck over the head with a towel roller, tied up with wire cord, and his keys taken. Using the keys to gain entry to the wholesale jewelry establishment on the top floor, the three men went to work on the vault. The Chinese friends of Lung, coming to visit him, alarmed the guard in the hallway and he ran upstairs to warn his companions. All four of the robbers escaped, one of the Chinese firing a shot after them as they ran down the stairs, but apparently without effect. The thieves had not gained entry to the safe and nothing else in the office was touched.

PREMIER AND PRESS

IT IS REGRETTABLE THAT IN THE final revision of his speech before its delivery over the radio on Friday evening the Premier did not draw a big, thick-nosed blue pencil through several paragraphs of the part in which he replied to criticism aimed at him by the afternoon newspapers of Vancouver. His observations implied the threat of the adoption in this country of press control such as exists in the nations under dictatorships in Europe.

These remarks impaired the value of what otherwise would have been an effective speech from the government point of view, particularly in its admirable review of the work of the recent session of the Legislature. They were wholly futile, as everybody must know, since there is no governmental machinery in Canada for the suppression of newspapers because they criticize governments, and there never will be any unless the Canadian people gift behind a revolution which overthrows representative institutions and sets up a Fascist or Communist dictatorship. And that is a remote possibility.

This is not to say that governments have no protection against criticism or attack of any kind. The Criminal Code of Canada and the statutes of this province contain drastic provisions concerning libel and slander, of which public men who think they are slanderously or libelously assailed in the press, occasionally take advantage. If the Vancouver newspapers have fallen within those prohibitions the courts are open to any member of the government who desires vindication. Otherwise there is not much to be done about it except to bear the criticism as one of the crosses which men in public office in democratic states have to carry up the hill until they are relieved of the burden by somebody else.

After all, however irritating opposition criticism may be, either in the press, the House or on the public platform, it is much safer than the bombs, the poison, the bullets of sub-machine guns with which opponents salute leaders of governments in countries where a free press is prohibited, where no dictator dares to exhibit himself to the public without first mobilizing an army. What, may we ask, are the attacks of The Vancouver Province or The Vancouver Sun in contrast with the high explosives which may be dropped into the lap of a European dictator any time? At the worst, the former may only smell, but the bombs can do a lot of real messy damage. Nor should it be forgotten that the suppression of the press in Russia, Italy and Germany did not occur until representative government and other institutions of freedom were first put out of existence. This recollection ought to have a certain significance for public men in Canada who talk about suppressing institutions on the European model because they resent the way such institutions operate or what is said in them or by them. The government walked the plank first. In some countries they went out even more abruptly.

This newspaper has been a supporter of the general policy of the present provincial government, subject to the reservation that it has opposed, and will continue to oppose, any proposition which it believes is in conflict with fundamental liberalism in its widest sense. A free press is inseparable from liberal principle, even if that press is not always reasonable or fair. If it is dishonest or unfair it suffers from its own imperfections at the hands, not of governments, but of public opinion without whose goodwill it can not exist. Mr. Pattullo, who, besides being a seasoned public man, is a former newspaperman, must realize that neither the quality nor quantity of opposition criticism, whether in the House or in the press, can be determined by the government in this country. He will recall that the Tolmie government had its share both from himself as leader of the opposition and from the press. So did the Maclean government, and, on the whole, these preceding administrations had a much more vigorous newspaper opposition than the Pattullo administration has had.

The Premier is a doughty fighter, is always fair; and no doubt would not have talked about the adoption of any of the fine flowers of European dictatorship in this province if he had not been smarting under a feeling of injustice in the reaction of Vancouver newspapers to himself and some of his policies. But he will have to adjust himself to the inescapable fact, established by the record, that no matter what he does or how he may do it, he will not satisfy Vancouver or its press, primarily, because he lacks the divine distinction of being a Vancouver man; secondly because he will not be run by it; in proof whereof it is only necessary to point out that the Premier is singled out as the chief target of criticism, whereas his ministerial colleagues from Vancouver, who must share responsibility for his policies, are let strictly alone—in fact they are acclaimed in The Daily Province as a "capable crew."

CO-OPERATING WITH MOTHER EARTH

WHILE THE SUBJECT OF UNEMPLOYment relief, the possibility of single men and families being able to subsist on the meagre allowances they receive, is occupying the attention of the Dominion government, provincial governments, and practically every municipality from coast to coast, a dispatch from Oliver, B.C.—that vast area of the Okanagan district in the southern Okanagan which once was stubborn sage-brush and tangled greasewood—brings us a narrative of what is being done there to wrest a living from mother earth.

All this area forms part of the Oliver government's Okanagan Irrigation Project and we are told that it is rapidly being transformed into a marvelous fertile farming country, that during the last six months the population has nearly doubled, that new homes have sprung up everywhere—dotting the valley in various stages of completion—that virgin soil is being cultivated and tomatoes and cantaloupes planted in greenhouses, that hundreds of new fruit trees have been planted, and, finally, that nearly all available farm land in the area has been sold.

Perhaps the most important information contained in this dispatch to which we have referred, however, is the fact that also during the last six months fifty new families, men, women, and children, have moved into the district confident that they will make a success of their venture. It is expected this year that the cannery at Oliver will operate in the canning of tomatoes at a very much greater capacity than last year. Production of cantaloupes in the Osoyoos area in 1934, incidentally, resulted in the shipment of no fewer than nearly 10,000 crates of this luscious and health-giving fruit.

As already pointed out in these columns, governments which are finding it necessary to shell out large sums of money in direct and therefore unproductive relief should be devoting a good deal more attention than they seem to be doing to the feasibility, under all heads, of drawing more of our own unemployed people from the camps and the hopeless economic condition with which the idle are confronted in the cities on to the land. There is no suggestion in this that any promise should be held out to them that a fortune awaits them if they will only get back to mother earth. The prospect which should be held out to them, however, is that if they are prepared to dig in and work and make a home, they at least should be able to sustain themselves and furnish adequate protection against the consequences of another economic visitation such as that from which the world is now only gradually emerging.

The pioneers who first went into the Osoyoos area had their trials and tribulations. There were many disappointments; but there would not be between three and four hundred people there now if the few had not demonstrated what could be done through hard work, for, as already intimated, before the Oliver government launched its irrigation programme—part of a provincially-assumed obligation in the interests of returned soldiers which rightly belonged to the Dominion—this section of British Columbia was merely a part of the "sage-brush belt" which runs north from the international boundary.

WHAT IS REALLY WRONG?

FROM TIME TO TIME WE ARE TOLD from various sources that all is not well at Kingston penitentiary. These assertions are followed just as quickly from official quarters at Ottawa that there is nothing whatever to worry about.

Governmental platitudes on this subject will not do. Another major revolt has just been quelled; "order is restored" and an "investigation" has been commenced. Miss Agnes MacPhail recently started another discussion by her complaint that Inspector J. D. Dawson had made derogatory remarks about her to a prisoner. She naturally is not the type to be put off.

There is more on the adage that where there is smoke there must be fire. The last row about Kingston arose out of the alleged shooting of bullets into the ceiling of the cell occupied by Tim Buck, who by the way, is now enjoying as much liberty of thought and speech as Section 98 of the Criminal Code of Canada will permit.

If there is nothing wrong at Kingston, why does not the government permit a real investigation, not a mere departmental inquiry, and set the minds of the people at rest?

It may be, of course, that the trouble-makers at Kingston are desperate characters; but the fact remains that prisoners can not be made to conform to rules by antiquated notions of repression.

The Times subscribes to no argument in favor of pampering criminals. But it is apparent that in some cases officialdom takes the view that once a man is behind prison walls he is for ever to be considered an outcast from human society.

THE ALEUTIANS

SHERWOOD EDDY, WHO HAS DEvoted a good part of his life to a study of the Orient, returns from the Far East with the warning that proposed manoeuvres near the Aleutian Islands by the United States Navy this summer will bring the United States closer than ever to war with Japan.

Mr. Eddy thinks it by no means a coincidence that plans for these manoeuvres were announced by naval authorities on the very day that Japan formally denounced the Washington naval treaty.

He points out that the territory involved is exceedingly close to Japan, and remarks that any slight accident to an American ship—an explosion, for instance—might easily be blamed on some Japanese aggression.

"Many of us," he says, "believe that the Aleutians are the right place to hold manoeuvres for those who want war, but the wrong place for those who want peace."

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

NO, YOU CAN'T!

TRIAL BY JURY QUESTIONED
The Detroit News

While the public in the main will feel that the findings of the Hauptmann jury rendered a substantial justice, the system of trial by jury revealed itself once more as a medieval survival in the law. The fault lies not with lawyers that they accommodate themselves to an existing code, but with a system which obliges a prosecutor to bawl hysterically for blood, which encourages counsel for the defence to pull out all the stops and throb of Mother, the stranger in a strange land, and the rest of the hokum inherent in the process of trial by histrionics. It is a method which breeds tricks of leaving the half-truth in the juror's mind, of alluding to things that never were and to remote and unprovable contingencies, on the chance that a seed of doubt may be sown in the mind of one impressionable juror.

In accordance with instructions issued two weeks ago, G. H. Bryson, assistant city engineer, will this evening submit to the street, sewers and bridges committee of the City Council the lists of those streets wherein the contract system may be tried in connection with the laying of cement sidewalks.

Lieutenant Hitchcocks, who resigned from the fire department yesterday and leaves for the north today, was presented yesterday by the members of the department with a suitcase. He has been fifteen years in the department.

Steamer Otter arrived this morning from Sehart whaling station with a cargo of whaling products consisting of 420 barrels of oil and 575 sacks of bone meal.

G. C. Johnson, F. Green and A. W. Carter left last night on the Amur for Skagway.

Announcement was made last evening of the appointment of H. B. Jackson to the position of manager of the Empress Hotel, succeeding B. M. Humble, who resigned a couple of weeks ago to engage in private business in Vancouver.

Just Folks
by Edgar A. Guest

APRIL FOOL

Guess now the day when she will be Engaged in setting traps for me.
"The water pipes have burst!" she'll cry,
And quickly to the scene I'll fly
To find, instead of pond or pool,
A child, exclaiming: "April Fool!"

"You've dropped your handkerchief!" I'll turn
How gullible I am to learn.
"You've torn your overcoat!" I'll pause
To find the damage and the cause
And hear her laugh in triumph when She's April Fooled me once again.

For me to-day will excuse be laid.
Ten times a fool shall I be made.
Upon a railway rail I'll lie
As you match I'll try to light
And laughter all day long will rule
Because her dear old dad's a fool.

Is this but once a year? Ah, no.
It happens every day or so.
However wise I try to be
That child can make a fool of me.
As mother says: A smile is all
I need into her trap to fall!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST
By ALINE MICHAELIS

OLD DIARIES AND NEW

To-day I found this diary, kept
A fill decade ago;
Both pages show how I laughed, prayed,
Felt,
Though now what moved me so
Lies hidden where time's shadows close;
A joy I used to wear
Has no more meaning than the rose
Once pinned against my hair.

So, after other years go by,
New hopes may bloom for me.
New laughter on my life may lie,
Fresh promise I may see.
Another self will take my place,
(More wise, more just than know!)
I shall but faintly on it trace
The look this self bears now.

Governor-General Speaks This Week

Two important luncheons of the Men's Canadian Club are scheduled during the next two weeks, according to notices issued to-day by F. J. Sehl, secretary-treasurer. The first will take place on Wednesday at 12.15 o'clock in the Empress Hotel, when His Excellency, The Earl of Bessborough, will address the clubmen during his farewell visit to Victoria. Next week, on April 12, Lord Robert Baden-Powell, the Chief Scout, will be the speaker. This luncheon will be held at the same time. The annual meeting of the Club will be held on April 16 in the hotel.

Letters not used will not be returned to the writers.

Letters containing offensive personal reflections will not be printed.

These rules, which henceforth will be carried out absolutely, are designed as much for the protection of our patient readers as for that of The Times.

CLEAN UP

To the Editor:—I notice a letter in The Daily Colonist of yesterday, drawing attention to "Clean-up, Paint-up Week," and advocating that the city renew their activities in cleaning up some of their 4,000 vacant lots, and as one home owner, I must say that this would be at least one piece of public work that would not only please our own residents but add to the many attractions for our five-year-campaign and at the same time may lead to some of our vacant lots being sold.

STORE LICENSES

To the Editor:—Your correspondent in Friday's Times, in reply to my letter regarding store license collection, overlooks the fact that it is one of our city by-laws a store should not be allowed to operate without a trading license, and in stating that the "authorities had been notified and were satisfied" admits that in her case at least a license had not been paid, and therefore our license collector is doing his work in a loose way.

True, these are hard times, but a woman whose husband is already running a business in the city should not try to take from other similar stores in the neighborhood what little business there is to be had, with an admitted uncertainty of being able to make it pay at least a six months' license before she opens up a new store. There are no doubt other stores in our city operating on a similar basis, which strengthens my case that there should be a tightening up on store license collections.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL

To the Editor:—I herewith submit a cure for our dirty beaches, with no extra expense to the ratepayer whatsoever. In fact the cost of garbage collection would be materially reduced.

During ten years, residence here with a family averaging five persons, our standard size garbage can has required to be emptied about once in four months; absolutely everything except cans and broken crockery is burned. We use wood in the kitchen range; the drawer of wood ash is emptied once a week on the garden, cans are scorched and put in the garbage can. All other refuse is cremated in a few minutes.

Can anything be more disgusting than those bails of refuse wrapped in newspaper which overflow most garbage cans? They look innocent enough, but open one up after a bad spell of weather and examine the contents; you would be surprised. I suggest it should be made an offence to put them there at all, that all refuse be burned and disposed of on the premises.

Electric ranges and oil burners are the chief offenders along this line, but a small refuse destructor can be installed, without much expense, and the heat from it need not be wasted.

RESIDENT.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

To the Editor:—It is amusing to note the argument of some people that if we adopted daylight saving some visitor would miss a boat and have to remain a few more hours in our beautiful city. It is still more surprising when one remembers that almost all the larger cities adopt daylight saving each year. In a city such as Chicago, for instance, there is more transportation by boat, train, busses, etc., in one hour than there is here in one month, and in that city, as well as others, transportation works on standard time, and the balance of the city on daylight saving time. When visiting Chicago during the fair, I inquired of the hotel clerk if the difference in time created any confusion? He replied not that he ever noticed.

And again, now that we are going to ape metropolitan cities by installing stop-and-go signs, so that visitors with cars may keep their eyes on the green light and drive like fury, why not adopt something for the good of the rank and file of our own citizens, who live here all the time?

FRANK LEROY.

ESQUIMALT

To the Editor:—I would be greatly obliged if you could find space for this letter.

Ratepayers of Esquimalt have received a letter purporting to have come from the council, but said letter never has been before the council. I presume it was composed by the reeve and was expected to come before the council before being issued, but it never did, hence this letter of explanation.

The president of the Ratepayers' Association did not expect the schools to be administered for $85,000, but with the government grant of $9,900.70 added. Yes, but only $65,000 of the ratepayers' money.

As to the relief office and engineer being dispensed with and the work of same given to the municipal clerk and his assistant, I would refer the reeve, who issued the letter, to the minutes of council meeting July 27, 1931, when he and two more of our present council passed resolutions to dispense with the clerk's assistant and put the engineer on half time, thereby reducing the office staff to two persons at a monthly salary of $293.50, as against a present staff of four at an expense of $515 per month. The reason he gave at that time was the necessity for economy, not only to satisfy the bank but in justice to the ratepayers. The mill rate at that time was 30.5, as against 40 to-day and we have borrowed $93,000 since then. As to our assets, they have depreciated 35 per cent since 1931. To prove this, compare prices of Esquimalt bonds of that year and to-day.

Now, Mr. Reeve, let us have a little of your 1931 economy methods in justice to the ratepayers. They are in more need of it now and are willing to support any measure that will cut down overhead and help to save their homes.

E. HODGSON,
Councillor.

1170 Esquimalt Road, March 31.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

They would have better facilities, would have the advantages of the hospital heating and lighting systems and other features calculated of benefit to them, he said.

FIGURED SOLUTION

"While I realize the city is doing all it can for these patients under the strain of existing financial conditions, conditions could be better than they are at present," Dr. Hunter stated.

"I feel this will solve the problem for some time to come. And I think we can come to a satisfactory financial arrangement with the directors of the hospital if the project is approved."

The building suggested is the large wooden structure at the east of the hospital, formerly used as a nurses' home. At present the top floor is occupied by maids of the hospital, leaving the lower floor vacant. Extensive repairs and renovations have been made there, increasing the adaptability of the premises for the purpose he suggests.

"danger of war is universally diffused and the cause of agitation to all and anxious in everyone the greatest fear."

It was for this reason, he said, he wished to speak to-day through his Apostolic office.

HORIZON DARK

"It is true while damage from the last European war has not yet been repaired," he said, "here again the horizon is darkened with thick clouds, pierced by sinister rays—something which keeps mind in suspense and trembling.

"The words of Jesus Christ are recalled to our minds. 'You shall hear of wars and sedition.' . . .

"There will be '. . . pestilences and famine and terror from Heaven; and there shall be great signs; . . . men withering away for fear and expectation of what shall come upon the whole world.'"

"We are not surprised, therefore," Pope Pius said, "if people in so much consternation, and so much confusion of nations turn their eyes from every side to the common Father in order to ask for light, relief and hope."

He recommended the ejaculation of the Apostles when they cried out to Christ as waves were about to engulf them, "O Lord, save us, lest we perish."

The consistory approved the canonization of Blessed Thomas More, King Henry VIII's chancellor, and Bishop John Fisher of Rochester, England, who lost their heads for opposing Henry's marriage to Anne Boleyn.

The consistory also approved the nomination of Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli as Camerlengo. In that capacity he will act as Pope during the period between the death of one Pope and the election of his successor. Cardinal Pacelli succeeds the late Cardinal Pietro Gasparri, veteran secretary of State.

The consistory likewise prolonged, or confirmed, the appointments of archbishops and bishops the Pope has made since the last consistory in 1933.

TRADE INDEX SLIGHTLY UP

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 1.—Economic conditions, as measured by an index of six major factors, showed slight betterment in the week ended March 23.

The index rose from 105.7 in the preceding week to 105.5 in the week under review. Outweighing inverted bond yields and bank clearings exerted a constructive influence on the composite index, while wholesale prices showed slight recession. Common stock prices and trading on the Montreal and Toronto stock exchanges were at lower levels than in the preceding week.

The lead over 1934 was more than maintained in recent weeks. The index of 105.5 contrasting with 95.7 in the week of March 24, 1934, showed a gain of 10.4 per cent. The ascendancy of the present year was due to gains in inverted bond yields, bank clearings and wholesale prices. Aside from a temporary reaction in February the level of economic conditions has been well maintained in the first quarter, the index registering a gain of 12.1 per cent over the same period of 1934.

Commodity prices at wholesale showed slight reaction in the week ended March 23. The index was 73.0 compared with 73.2, the revised standing for the preceding week. In the corresponding week of 1934 the index was 71.8. Fluctuations in the meantime have been of a minor character so far as the general average is concerned.

The cost of wheat on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange was slightly higher than in the preceding week, while coarse grains receded appreciably.

BRIGHT SPOTS OF LAST WEEK

Bright spots of the financial and industrial week, as reported by the Canadian Press, were as follows:

Toronto—Dominion Radiator Company has taken back sixty former employees and now have ninety-five factory hands compared with thirty-five at the period of last year.

Hamilton—An $60,000 plant will be erected here by Hill Steel Construction Co., to be completed by midsummer.

Saint John — After a three-year close down the mill of New Brunswick International Paper Company at Marysville will go into operation this spring.

Winnipeg — Royal Crown Soaps Limited will start soon on a $15,000 addition to their plant here.

Welland, Ont.—Canada Atlas Steels Limited will put a $10,000 addition to their plant construction to start at once.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Helped Miss Kesterke

We quote from her letter: "Three years ago, I became constipated. I tried many laxatives. But as soon as I got used to each kind, I began to get the same trouble.

"Last summer I was on my vacation. They served Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I just loved it. I eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every morning, and ever since I have not had to take any more laxatives."—Miss Margaret Kesterke. Address on request.

*Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle. It resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables, so it is often more effective.

Isn't this food safer than risking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. If seriously constipated, use with each meal. See your doctor, if you do not get relief.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Weddings

MELVIN—CARLSON

A quiet marriage was solemnized at the house of the Rev. Daniel Walker, 1135 Rockland Avenue, on Saturday evening, when Phyllis Violet Carlson was united in marriage to Daniel Clanton Melvin. The bride was given away by Mr. M. Janson and was attended by Mrs. W. J. English and the bridegroom was supported by Mr. William John English. The young couple will make their home at Sidney, B.C.

GILBERT—DICK

Mauve and yellow flowers and greenery formed the pretty setting for the wedding of Bessie Ronalda, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Dick of Dunfermline, Scotland, and Mr. Edward Samuel Gilbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Gilbert of Moodville, Brentwood, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Florence, Bay Street, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. J. Smith Patterson officiated.

Mr. Florence gave the bride in marriage. She was in a gown of Princess Elizabeth blue taffeta, frilled and trimmed with iridescent sequins, and wore a wreath of orange blossoms and a necklet of pearls.

Her shower bouquet was of Ophelia roses, pink carnations, freesias and white heather. She was attended by Miss Bessie Cruikshanks in a frock of pale yellow point d'esprit and a flower headdress in her hair. She carried a bouquet of yellow irises and ferns. Mr. Jack Gilbert supported his brother.

Miss Alice Kershaw played the bridal music, and during the signing of the register, Miss Josephine Duncan sang "O, Promise Me."

The guests were received by Mrs. Florence and Mrs. Gilbert, both gowned in black chiffon velvet, with corsage bouquets of roses and carnations. The three-tier wedding cake, the gift of Mr. G. R. Florence of Nanaimo, centred the summer table, set in folds of tulle and flanked by vases of Easter lilies and silver holders containing tall pink tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert left at midnight for Vancouver, where they will make their home, the bride going away in a brown suit with a brown and gold hat and a brown muskrat coat. They were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, including a silver casserole from Mr. J. P. Forde, of the Dominion Government Survey Department in Vancouver, of which the groom is a member.

Catholic Women's League — The Victoria sub-division of the Catholic Women's League will hold its election of officers in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening after the service. All members are urged to attend.

POET'S LETTERS TO BE SOLD

Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning Correspondence Disclosed

Associated Press

New York, April 1. — Parts of twenty-two previously unpublished letters by Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning, written to her sisters, were disclosed Saturday by the American Art Association-Anderson galleries.

The letters shed new light on the romance of the two poets and their life in Italy, where they fled a week after a secret marriage to escape the wrath of "Ba's" father and to recover her health.

Mrs. Browning's first letter from abroad explodes the myth that Browning did not see her during that week because he could not ask for her by her maiden name and dared not speak of her as Mrs. Browning.

"Understand, both of you," she wrote to her sister, Henrietta and Arabel, "that if, from the apparent necessities of the instant, I consented to let the ceremony precede the departure some few days, it was upon the condition of not seeing him again in that house and until we went away. There was no elopement in the case, but simply a private marriage . . . as he wished it and had promised not to see me. I thought it was mere cavilling on my part to make a difficulty."

Of Browning's love for her she wrote in the same letter, dated October 2, 1846:

"He puts out all his great faculties to give me pleasure and comfort . . . and he loves me more and more. To-day we have been together a fortnight, and he said to me with a deep, serious tenderness, 'I kissed your feet, my Ba, before I married you, but now I would kiss the ground under your feet. I love you with a so much greater love.'"

QUEENS WILL ATTEND BALL

Pre-view Function at Empress April 25; Vic Meyer Invited

Featuring two sixteen-piece orchestras, the largest ever presented at a dance in Victoria, a Pre-view Queen Ball will be held at the Empress Hotel on Thursday evening, April 25, from 9 to 1, under the auspices of the finance committee of the Victoria Day (1935) Celebration Committee. All proceeds of this ball will be used to supplement the regular funds for the May 24 celebration.

As an added feature of this dance an invitation has been sent to Lieutenant-Governor Vic. Meyer of the state of Washington, noted musician-legislator, to be in attendance and act as guest speaker for the evening. Mr. Meyer is well known as a musician both in Victoria and on the mainland and at the present time he has two orchestras playing in his night club. The committee in charge of the ball are endeavoring to persuade Mr. Meyer to make his first guest appearance in Canada in Victoria for this important event.

All services for this dance are being given gratuitously. Mr. Stanley O. Peele having arranged with the Musicians' Union for the two orchestras, and Mr. J. K. Hodges has granted free use of the Empress Hotel on that evening.

Tickets went on sale this morning and already a number of Victorians have signified their intention of being present. Coming as it does immediately after Easter, this affair is expected to be the first big ball after the Lenten season.

The committee in charge of arrangements include Alderman J. A. Worthington, Mr. Peele and William O. Findlay. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the committee, at 1216 Government Street, the May Queen headquarters or from the Chamber of Commerce.

BADMINTON CLUB AT EAST SOOKE

A committee meeting of the East Sooke Badminton Club was held preliminary to the "monthly special" night. Mrs. Jackson was elected to the committee. Owing to a charge now being made for the use of the hall, the membership fee will be increased. Arrangements were completed for the masquerade dance in the Metchosin Hall on Friday, April 26. Sale's orchestra will provide the music. The club colors will be dark blue and gold. One new member joined, bringing the membership up to seventy-six.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

GIVE BOTTLE AFTER FIRST YEAR ONLY TO BACKWARD BABY

By the time a well baby has reached his first birthday he should, if he has had sufficient practice with cups, be able to drink all of his fluids by cup. The use of the bottle after the first year is invariably an indication that the baby has not had this developing experience, or that he has established the habit of using a bottle as he would a pacifier and the habit is just as difficult to break.

Children who will not drink milk unless they can take it by bottle are the victims of a "sucking" habit, no different in kind than thumb sucking. They want the bottle for the satisfaction they get from the nipple, not from the satisfaction they get from drinking milk.

BOTTLE ISN'T NECESSARY

Unless the baby is physically and mentally backward there are no valid reasons for continuing a bottle after the first year. To understand that non-drinking of milk is no excuse for continuing the bottle is one step toward better nutrition.

Our leaflets, "Weaning the Child from Bottle to Cup" and "Increasing the Child's Consumption of Milk," will help the mother to see how she may divorce the child from the bottle and still furnish adequate nutrition. The two leaflets may be had for a self-addressed, stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred care of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

ONE HOUR NAP

Mrs. R. J. C. has a problem which resembles the above. She writes: "My baby is sixteen months old and he has breakfast at 7 o'clock and stays up until 11:30 a.m. After his noon meal he is put to bed. He is awake in an hour and wants to get up. What am I doing that is wrong? It seems to me that he should sleep longer.

"He wakes up every night and wants his bottle. I try giving him water but he cries until he gets his bottle. Then he goes to sleep satisfied. Is this just habit?"

Without knowing how you are feeding the child in daytime it is impossible to tell you what needs correction.

TWO BAD HABITS

A one hour nap in daytime and twelve hours' sleep at night is not a bad average at this age. But the bottle drinking at night is a habit—and so is the waking. Why he wakens may be closely connected with his daytime diet.

Won't you let me send you in addition to the above offered leaflets the one called "Feeding from Twelve to Eighteen Months" which may be accommodated in the same envelope? A conscientious effort to improve the diet may offer a solution of the night waking—and automatically eliminate the bottle.

To-morrow—"If Your Baby Has Died—Don't Brood, Look Ahead."

DEN FOR HEAD OF HOUSE

A room for the man of the house, even if it is only a corner of the attic or a closet-sized space retrieved from the cellar is an institution that will mean happier family life. A little wallboard, kalomine and a few evenings given to fitting up by the prospective owner will be sufficient.

And above all, a mere man warns wives, do not try to furnish the room for your husband. Even if it is to be a birthday surprise, make it possible for him to have what he wants. This will probably include all possible cupboard space, lots of comfortable chairs, a couch with a soft pillow and a desk so big that it need never be cleared off.

V.O.N. Executive Received By Countess Of Bessborough

At the request of the Countess of Bessborough, the executive of the local branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses were received at Government House on Friday morning last. Her Excellency showed her familiarity with all branches of the V.O.N. and revealed her interest by asking many questions as to the various phases of the work, particularly that among the Chinese and among those who are receiving free care. Members of the executive present included: Mrs. H. B. Beckton, president; Mrs. Glen Holland, Mrs. Gerald Parker and Mrs. Harold Bede, the vice-presidents; Mrs. Norman Yarrow, secretary, and Miss Victoria Phipps, treasurer, and Miss Ethel M. Thornley, R.N., head nurse.

Scout Dance Nets Fair Sum

At a meeting of the committee of the Boy Scouts' Association, North Quadra Troop and Pack, held last Thursday evening at headquarters, Glasgow Avenue, a report was received as to the financial result of the dance held on March 22, at Mount View High School. It was indicated that the profits would amount to approximately $80, which was considered very satisfactory. It is doubted whether this will be sufficient to finance the proposed new Rover Crew building, and a decision as to start on the structure was held in abeyance, in order that an estimate of cost may be obtained.

Those responsible for the dance were congratulated on its success, and thanked for their efforts. Acknowledgement was made of prizes contributed by A. E. Morris, tobacconist, Dugan-Ribben Ltd., stationery, W. & J. Wilson, Scout outfitters, and the Hudson's Bay Company.

Members of the committee specially thanked for work included Mesdames Coleman, Frost, Fox, Kirchin, Scoutmaster Miller, and F. J. Crowhurst. The services of Harry Porter as master of ceremonies on the occasion of the dance also were particularly mentioned.

Daffodil Tea—A daffodil tea and an Easter sale of work will be held under the auspices of Victoria Purple Star No. 104 L.O.B.A., on Wednesday, April 3, at 2.30 in the Orange Hall, Courtney Street. There will be Easter novelties, home cooking, afternoon teas, cup reading, etc. The meeting will be at 7.30, after which court whist will be played and scrip prizes and refreshments provided. All members and friends are welcome.

MASS WEDDING OF BABIES HELD

Associated Press

Bombay, India, April 1. — Their childish eyes blankly bewildered and their bare feet fretfully chafing the grass, 374 infant couples were married yesterday in a meadow near the small village of Kathlawar. It was the largest mass child marriage ceremony held in India in many years.

Some of the brides and bridegrooms were mere infants in arms, whose parents had arranged their future lives for them in accordance with Indian customs centuries old.

Many babies slept in the arms of their elders while the latter said their "I do's" for them. Others gurgled happily at the booming of gun salutes which were a part of the elaborate ceremony.

The young bridegrooms arrived, many of them, in decorated bullock carts, and were carried before the priests, some of them laughing, some crying. The priests incanted the mass marriage vows and afterward all the tiny couples united in a big feast of celebration in which their parents joined.

Child marriage in India is a religious tradition among the Brahmin and other Hindu castes. Marriage contracts are usually made before or at the time of birth by the parents and family, and the marriage is performed when the children are between two and fourteen years old.

To Hold Silver Tea—The regular meeting of Queen of the Island Lodge L.O.B.A., was held recently, with Worthy Mistress Mrs. Baker in the chair. Final arrangements were made for the silver tea to be held at 812 Vancouver Street on Wednesday, April 3, from 2.30 to 5 p.m., Mrs. Martin acting as hostess. The meeting was followed by whist and the prize winners were as follows: First, ladies, Mrs. Melville; second, Mrs. Ripley; consolation, Mrs. Graham; gents, first, Mr. Laing; second, Mrs. Berry; consolation, Mrs. Baker.

HER EXCELLENCY VISITS SCHOOL

Indicative of her interest in educational matters, Her Excellency the Countess of Bessborough this morning paid an informal visit to St. Margaret's School, accompanied by Capt. Michael Adams, aide-de-camp. The distinguished visitor was received by Mrs. G. Matheson Duncan, principal of the school, and was shown through the building. Her Excellency asked many questions as to the school curriculum and showed much interest in the school sports and dramatic programmes.

Woman Hotel Manager Here

Miss M. M. Haiter, Head of World-famed Temperance Hotel in Edinburgh, Scotland, Visits City.

Of very real interest to Canadian women, especially those who sought escape during difficult pre-war days, is the story of Miss M. M. Haiter, of Edinburgh, Scotland, who has been a guest at the Empress Hotel.

She is manager of "Darling's Hotel," the unpretentious but world-famous hostelry which, situated barely a stonethrow from Holyrood, has helped make nineteenth and twentieth century social history in Edinburgh.

"Darling's" is the guest house where for over seventy years family worship was held every night. There Abraham Lincoln's widow stayed when she came over to see the statue erected by the Scottish people in recognition of his work as the Great Emancipator. Evangelists of the calibre of Moody and Sankey, clergy, literary lights of the last century, county families of this have been and are numbered among its conservative clientele.

Originally "Regent's Hotel," it became known as Darling's, a tribute to the personality of the late Miss Darling, its owner and manager over a long period of time.

Miss Darling was a great temperance woman. It is only eleven years, and shortly before she died, since she came to Canada on a temperance mission. Weddings, very much a speciality of Darling's for the "best people," are celebrated under its hospitable roof without wine or other intoxicating liquors.

At Miss Darling's death, Miss Haiter stepped into her shoes.

Forty years ago she started her career at Darling's as bookkeeper. To-known all over the world by guests who have stayed with her as a personality, she carries on the unique tradition of Darling's with quiet dignity. Though she admits "we have modernized and improved it to a great extent. Not out of recognition—but in line with the times."

Hotel management for women on this continent is still more or less a career for the future. Perhaps sometime a Canadian Viki Baum will write the story of a Canadian Miss Haiter.

MANY PLAYS FOR FESTIVAL

Dominion Drama Contest Opens in Ottawa Easter Monday

Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 1.—With teams from eight provinces competing, the third Dominion drama festival will open here Easter Monday, April 22. For a week amateur dramatic groups which competed in regional competitions throughout Canada and passed the critical eye of Malcolm Morley, adjudicator, will face a harder test. At the Ottawa Little Theatre they will play before Allan Wade, selected to judge the finals, in competition for the Bessborough trophy emblematic of amateur dramatic supremacy in Canada.

With announcement from Toronto of awards in the central Ontario region, the regional festivals are now completed. Every province, with the exception of Prince Edward Island, will be represented, while the larger ones, such as Ontario and Quebec, which have been sub-divided, will have a number of teams. In the discretion of the central committee at Ottawa, more than one group may be invited to participate from a single region.

An interesting feature of the competition this year is that the Masquers Club of Winnipeg, which won the Bessborough trophy in 1933, the first year of the festival, will again be in the finals. The Masquers Club failed to qualify last year, when the Bessborough trophy went to one of the Hart House teams playing "Michael," the mystic drama by Miles Malleson. Hart House did not win the central regional competition this year. It went to the Arts and Letters Club, Toronto, playing "The Poacher," by J. O. Francis. The director of the winning group this year was Edgar Stone, who last year directed the Hart House entry which won the Bessborough trophy.

The final competitions embrace both English and French plays. In addition to the Bessborough trophy, donated by the Governor-General, and now held by Hart House, prizes are awarded for the best play in English and the best in French. A prize is also given for the best production of a play by a Canadian dramatist. Last year this award was won by Miss Martha Allen with her "All on a Summer's Day."

The British Columbia entry will be the trial scene from George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," which the Vancouver Embassy Players will present.

Do You Want Your Daughter To Be Pretty?

Mothers who are anxious for their daughters to be healthy and attractive will be interested in the story of a certain young girl who was pale, run-down, underweight, when she went to a competent authority to have her blood tested. She weighed only 91½ pounds. The test revealed the trouble. Her blood was too poor in quality to keep up her strength, weight and vitality. Her blood was below normal in the number of red corpuscles and in vitally-necessary haemoglobin. She was instructed to take two of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (so called because they have a pink sugar coating) three times a day for a month and then return for another blood test.

Thirty days later a changed, happy girl came back. She had gained nine pounds. Her blood tested almost normal in its haemoglobin content and was slightly better than normal in number of red corpuscles. She felt a tremendous lot better and looked it. She had roses in her cheeks and everyone said that "her face had rounded out and she was positively pretty".

Charming color and soft clear skin depend almost entirely upon the blood, because the blood carries the vitality and nutriment that builds the complexion. The soft, clear skin of every pretty baby is proof of it. And the girl mentioned above is living evidence that good looks which have been lost through impoverished blood can be regained by taking the proper remedy.

There is no need for so many girls to endure a sallow, uninteresting complexion nor to remain listless, nervous and easily tired out. For when these are symptoms of blood that is lacking in vitality, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will restore strength and "pep" and tone up good looks, too! Equally effective for people of all ages. The Way Beyond

By JEFFERY FARNOL

"Did she say? Then begad, it is young Vibart, she! Oh, I happen to know she'll marry Vibart's son."

"No, sir, she merely—thinks she will."

"Hord, what the devil do ye mean?"

"Simply that I have determined, and arranged, to make her lady Hord."

The Earl took up the heavy, cut-glass decanter much as if he would have brained it at his son's curly, golden head, but he proceeded to fill his glass, though the eyes in the large gentleness of his face seemed more malevolent than ever.

"And what then," he demanded, "what o' ye engagement to Rose Singleton? Need I remind ye that a wealthy marriage becomes more imperative?"

"Then, sir, I fear you must think out some other scheme. Yourself, for instance, being so tall and very male, might woo another—"

"Hord, are ye mad, a fool, or merely drunk?"

"Either or all, sir for I shall certainly marry for love and to please only myself." At this, the Earl being viciously enraged, chuckled throatily and fell back upon that retort which, as he well knew, could stir this stiddy contemptuous son of his as nothing else might.

"My poor Hord," sighed he, "you become more and more like your poor, futile, peak-faced mother!"

"But this time it seemed the taunt would prove ineffectual, for Lord Hord sat mute, staring down at the wine glass he was turning in slender fingers; at last, slowly, and with eyes still closed, he arose and lolling against the table, spoke in voice almost whispering:

"My mother! My poor, small, ill-used mother who died so much before her time! Sir, you have mentioned her to-night with a strange frequency—but not one look of kindness, not one word of remorse for the misery you caused her. Well now, as this dead mother's son sat here listening to your coarse, brutish sneers he could very joyfully have struck you dead. And, before God, he may yet! Who know? For, sir, remembering that little, heartbroken mother of mine, I should be quite charmed to see your noble lordship very completely dead.

"And now, leaning across the table, he stared down at his sire and though his voice had been quite pleasantly modulated, though his pale lips smiled, his wide, blue eyes, mild no longer, glared such look that the Earl shrank appalled, his wine glass fell and shattered on the floor all unheeded, and when at last he found voice it was neither full-throated nor hearty:

"Ilford . . . you . . . you . . . by God . . . you're drunk!"

"Right, sir I am . . . And yet sober enough to hope that great carcass of yours may soon grow . . . currupt as your soul. In which fervent hope, right noble lord and father—I will 'to bed." And turning upon his heels, Lord Hord, very deliberately, though with an occasional stagger, crossed the wide floor to the door and was gone.

For some time after his son departed, the Earl sat staring blankly down at the remains of his shattered wine glass; indeed these glittering fragments seemed to fascinate him, for with his gaze still fixed there, he groped for the silver table-bell and rang it; nor did he so much as glance up when the door opened but merely bade the bowing footman:

"Send Clipsby to me."

And presently the door opened again, closed softly, soft footsteps crossed the floor and a voice murmured:

"Yes, my lord?" Then the Earl raised large head with a jerk, sat back in his chair and surveyed that which stood before him; a lank shape neither tall nor short, nor dark nor fair with form and features so altogether nondescript and unremarkable, a creature so superlatively negative from head to foot as to be almost a nonentity garbed in sober black.

"You may sit down, Clipsby." Pale eyes flickered and a chair became occupied.

"Wine, Clipsby—help yourself." The decanter tilted wine into a glass, and the glass was lifted to a pale, thin-lipped mouth.

"Now, in regard, to this girl, Clipsby. Tell me again. You saw her with young Vibart, you heard her agree to elope with him—hey?"

"On Thursday next, my lord."

"Well, Thursday shan't serve, Thursday's not soon enough. Ilford, the drunk—damn his eyes—is sober as a judge, and he means to wed Helena, so you see, he must take a hand and marry her himself and if he does, young Vibart will probably shoot him. Well, such a marriage won't serve me. Clipsby, and—damn him—I don't want him shot for the same reason. So this foul marriage must not and shall not be d'ye hear?"

"If your lordship so says then it probably won't be."

"Ha, damme, it shan't be! We must take a hand in this precious game, Clipsby. I must play Providence rearrange these young lives . . . Two puppies snarling over luscious tit-bit—along comes the old dog—snap! And away with the dainty morsel—ha?"

"Your lordship's metaphor is apt."

"Well now, see here, Clipsby—drew closer! This same tempting piece o' womanhood, this coy Prudery must be tamed, her prideful virtue humbled, ah, so humbled that to hide herself from eyes censorious, more especially the doting sheep's eyes of her two adoring swains young Vibart and Ilford, disown him! She, thus disposed of, these two fool lads having duly mourned their fallen and vanished divinity, shall presently become amenable to their several father's will, especially my damned fool Ilford, hey, Clipsby?"

"Having regard to Miss Singleton's very considerable fortune, my Lord?"

"Precisely. And the scheme promises, we must act at once, you and I. You will therefore—"

"I, my lord? You . . . mean . . . ?"

"Exactly! We must use the Abbey again for a night or so."

A gasping murmur:

"Not that, my lord . . . no—no!"

And now a babble of sibilant, horrified whispering: "Ah, not again! Never again! Your lordship promised me! No no, I cannot! I will not!"

"Silence, ye fool! This is business! And, what's more—"

"No, no—I will not . . . I cannot!"

"Ah, but ye will! And with the same secrecy and wholehearted devotion as before, eh Clipsby?"

"You promised, my Lord. You swore on oath . . . and . . . I . . . cannot."

"Well, ye know the alternative? I see ye do. Death is always unpleasant, Clipsby, but more especially when—it is made a public function, ha?" Two thin tremulous hands clasped and wrung each other, a whispering voice spoke:

"Years and years of agonized remorse . . . years and years of faithful service . . . acts committed that are shame to recall! These should earn respite . . . even for me."

"They shall, Clipsby, they shall! This once more and, though I shall grieve ye lose, you shall go, ay and with a noble competence."

"The same answer . . . always . . . always the same!"

"That little chamber in the Abbey ruins beside the mere, egad, we haven't used it for years! How long since that last happy occasion?" The whispering voice gasped:

"Sir."

"So long hey! Well, to-morrow early, or, better, to-night, make it habitable as possible."

"Oh, my lord . . . show mercy! She is . . . so different."

"Tush, ye fool! She shall come to no real harm. But to-morrow she must disappear, vanish—until she elect to fly away on the wings o' shame—yet harmed only in her mock-modest self-esteem and proud virtue. Well now, another glass o' wine? No? Then help me to bed.

CHAPTER X

It was high noon when Sir Peter drew rein to gaze up at a certain inn-sign whereon was painted the lively representation of a bull—a truly heroic animal, for though time had dimmed him, though storm of weather had somewhat blurred and faded him, yet there he was—as glaring of eye, as astonishingly curly of horn and stiff of tail as ever.

Sir Peter drooped in his saddle a little wearily, for the way had been long and dusty; but as he gazed up at this truly indomitable animal, he forgot weariness and squared his shoulders, for Time rolled backward and there rushed upon him the wistful memory of other days . . . The tap-tapping of the Ancient's stick, the light footsteps of sweet Prudence, of Charmian vivid with youth, standing amid the leaves in a glamor of moonlight; of storm and strife; of lurking peril and joyous adventure—days of such passionate living . . . Sir Peter sighed.

And then, borne to him on the warm, drowsy air, came the thud and ring of hammer and anvil. Sir Peter started, his austere mouth grew young with quick smile, his sombre eyes brightened as they glanced around about him upon this well-remembered, too seldom visited scene . . . This broad highway, white and dusty, that stretched away between gardens ablaze with flowers and backed by thatched cottages shaded by tall aged trees beyond which peeped the gable of barn or pointed roof of oast-house.

Sir Peter walked his horse along this white road to the smithy and stooping, peered in at the low-arched doorway.

And there all alone at his anvil stood Black George a very son of Anak in his bare-armed might, plying his craft; he sang no more slit nose old, but he sang no more slit nose the crisp curls of his Saxon-yellow hair, Peter copied broad streaks of silver, also his comely face, somewhat scoty from the fire, showed marks not there by more than the hand of Old Father Time.

JUBILEE PLANS ARE REVEALED

Dominion-wide Celebrations Suggested For Accession Day

Local celebrations throughout the length and breadth of Canada will most probably mark the Dominion's participation in the Accession Day festivities on May 6, according to communications received at the City Hall.

According to a letter from the provincial government, through F. Walker, deputy provincial secretary, His Majesty has expressed the special desire that celebrations in each community be on a local basis and should, where possible, include decorations and illuminations with special reference to entertainments for children.

Along with the provincial message came a more detailed statement from the Secretary of State of Canada. The letter stated it was His Majesty's wish that all undue expenditures should be avoided.

Inauguration of the ceremonies will start with special services of thanksgiving in all churches of Canada on the morning or evening of Sunday, May 5.

PARLIAMENT HILL FEATURE

In Ottawa a public celebration on Parliament Hill, where specially struck silver jubilee medals will be distributed to those to whom they have been granted, will mark the Canadian capital's observance of the day.

The provincial government is invited to carry out a similar programme in Victoria, at which His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor would attend, medals if any are to be given out.

The mayors, reeves, wardens and prefects of all civic and municipal centres in the province are asked to arrange local celebrations on similar lines.

Members of the defence forces will be free to participate in any appropriate functions which might be arranged by the provincial government, and by local authorities to which they were invited, the letter from the Secretary of States reads.

The Philippines and Japan will be connected by radio telephone service within twelve months.

Stories in STAMPS

OUT of the glorious middle age, when many cities of Europe became independent governments, only one city remains to-day to flutter a flag all its own. And even that city, Danzig, is a "Free City" only by virtue of the Treaty of Versailles and Poland's demand for a port on the Baltic. Danzig first was recognized as a free city in 1772, although it was virtually so long before that. It was annexed to Prussia in 1793, became free again for a short time under Napoleon, went back to Prussia in 1814, and remained under German rule until after the World War.

But Danzig's stamps show that it still is German predominantly, for all are issued in the German language.

VICTORIA GETS NEW SHOE FIRM

The Foot Health Shop to Open For Business To-morrow at 1425 Douglas St.

Featuring the latest ideas in equipment and efficient service, Victoria's newest shoe store, "The Foot Health Shop," will be opened for business to-morrow under the management and joint proprietorship of D. R. McIntosh and W. H. Golby.

The new store is located at 1425 Douglas Street, near Pandora Avenue.

"Our guiding idea," said Mr. McIntosh this morning, "is to raise the shoe business to a higher plane by providing scientific care of the feet—something equally as important as modern optometry or dentistry."

The new firm will sell Health Spot Shoes for men and women, and Georgina Shoes for women. The former line is well known in the United States, but has just been introduced to Canada by the Murray Company of London, Ontario. The latter brand is made by the Blachford Shoe Company of Toronto. Both brands are smartly fashionable and scientifically designed for foot-health and comfort. They will be sold in Victoria exclusively by the new firm.

The premises have been completely remodeled and decorated along tasteful, modernistic lines. Features now to the shoe business in Victoria have been incorporated, such as indirect lighting, individual fitting booths, waiting rooms and the placing of the stock in the rear section of the building instead of in the salesroom. Throughout, the new equipment and fittings are thoroughly up-to-date.

Mr. McIntosh is a graduate of the American School of Practipedics and of the School Orthopedic Training School (Chicago). He was a member of the Munday Shoe Store staff for eleven years. A native son of Victoria he is a member of the Elmemen's Club and a director of the Vancouver Island Lifeboat Association.

Mr. Golby is an orthopedic shoe specialist and scientific shoe adjuster. The son of Madame Joseph, well known as a chiropodist here for twenty years, Mr. Golby has been a Victorian since his second birthday. He is a prominent member of the Victoria Yacht Club.

"The public is just awakening to the importance to health of properly designed, correctly adjusted footwear," declared Mr. Golby. "Research has proven that serious bodily conditions are often related to weak feet. These include stiff neck, headache, congestion, neuritis, arthritis, rheumatic pains, varicose veins, myositis, sciatica, cramps, fallen arches, and so on. We feel that our scientific foot-health service will be welcomed by the public of Victoria."

Health Spot Shoes are endorsed by the American and also by the Canadian Osteopathic Associations and by the National Association of Chiropodists of the United States.

For the First Time in Canada

HEALTH SPOT SHOES

Health Spot Shoes for men and women are truly scientifically made for foot health and comfort. Their design is the product of years of laboratory research by prominent orthopaedic experts. The Foot Health Shop now presents them in Canada for the first time. Come in and let us show you them.

How to Get Money to Finance Your Opportunity

The man with financial backing has the advantage in our modern business world. Today when jobs are scarce there are many opportunities for the man with a little capital. There are openings for business partnerships, opportunities to start in business for oneself, or the chance to purchase a home at a bargain.

To get ahead it is necessary to save money and the surest, safest way to save money is through life Insurance. A Great-West Life Endowment Policy will provide a specified sum in cash at the end of a number of years. The premiums are low in proportion to the amount you receive because profits help to make your savings grow. You can thus plan for any definite objective—the purchase of a home or a business; the assurance of a sufficient sum of money to provide for old age for yourself or others. Should you die before payments are completed the sum arranged for will be paid in full to your heirs.

You would enjoy reading some true stories telling what insurance with The Great-West Life has done for others—how it has helped men to advance themselves; provided funds in dire emergencies; saved widows from poverty. A number of these stories are now available in booklet form. Mail the coupon for your copy FREE.

GREAT WEST LIFE

"This Simple Plan Increased my Earning Power"

EIGHT YEARS AGO I was teaching in a rural school in Alberta. I was comfortable, living with my wife and little daughter, but could see no future ahead. In 1928 I saw that there would be openings for district supervisors. I had experience, a good record, but it would take a year to get my university degree.

By selling our furniture and car and raising a loan on my Great-West Insurance we were barely able to raise the necessary funds to carry us through the year. I was successful in gaining my degree, and the university gave me the chance to take a post-graduate year.

In 1931 I left the university with my M.A. degree and went on the high school staff at a salary of $2,150. I was not long in repaying the loan on my Policy. Then we started looking for a permanent home, and finally decided to build one.

By assigning my policy to the bank I obtained a loan sufficient for a cash down payment. Soon I repaid this loan and recovered the policy, and took my wife to the coast for a well-earned holiday. I am thoroughly sold on insurance. It has helped me to increase my earning power and to have a home of my own.

A number of these human interest stories may be found in booklet form. You will find them interesting. Mail the coupon today to the address below.

RAISE QUEBEC MINING LEVY

Increase of Tax From 3 to 4 Per Cent Approved By Industry

Quebec, April 1. — Legislation increasing the rate of taxation on profits of mining companies in Quebec were passed by the Legislative Assembly Saturday. The rate is increased from 3 to 4 per cent on profits from $10,000 to $1,000,000, with corresponding increases on profits fixed in a graduated scale.

Between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 profits the tax will be 5 per cent instead of 4 as previously, while the tax on profits from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 will be 6 per cent, and 7 per cent over $3,000,000. The bill based on the resolutions is expected to be approved next week.

Montreal, April 1 (Canadian Press) —J. Y. Murdoch, K.C., president of Noranda Mines Limited, approved the Quebec government's plan of taxing mining profits rather than a tax on metal production regardless of cost.

Mr. Murdoch stated the principle "should stand as an example to other legislative bodies. "I think I can say with assurance that the Quebec taxes will be regarded favorably by the industry," he said.

THE PUBLIC IS CORDIALLY INVITED TO ATTEND

Clean-up, Repair and Paint Drive This Week

Civic Bodies Back Clean-up Campaign

Repainting of Property and Tidying of Land Will Mean No Increase in Assessments, City Council Announces

Enthusiastic support for the spring-cleaning drive being sponsored by the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce this week from April 1 to 6, under the name of "Clean - up - Repair - Paint-up" week, is being given by many civic and private organizations in an endeavor to make Victoria and the surrounding municipalities more beautiful in anticipation of a large tourist season this year.

The drive is for the purpose of enlisting the aid of every resident in Victoria and district in a spirited movement to make the best public appearance with all classes of property, including business buildings, residences, public and private gardens and vacant land. Fire prevention, public health, enhancement in civic appeal, and community action to improve on Victoria's reputation as the most beautiful city in Canada are all aimed at in the plans which go off to a flying start to-day.

NO TAX INCREASE

Announcement has been made at the City Hall that assessments will not be increased as a result of painting up, repairing or other improvements. No increase in taxation will take place unless some new structure like a garage, or greenhouse, is erected. Citizens need have no fear, stated one prominent official, that their taxes will be increased, if they clean-up their homes and properties.

MATERIALS CHEAPER

Most reports point to continued improvement in business, although the index price of raw materials and of many manufactured products is still well below normal. Nowhere is this more noticeable than in the building and construction industry. The price of lumber, paint, and the many other things that are needed in a home to put the grounds and house in order is lower now than for many years, and with production costs increasing the purchase price will automatically increase very soon.

HELP UNEMPLOYED

With everybody thinking of spring and new clothes for Easter, it is very befitting that some thought should be given to a new spring outfit for the home or office. There are also innumerable people who are unemployed and who would appreciate greatly the opportunity of earning a little extra money. The Employment Service of Canada, with offices at 1001 Langley Street, endorse wholeheartedly the "clean-up" campaign and the opportunity it offers for small jobs for both men and women. The Employment Service of Canada have complete listings of both men and women and are prepared to provide skilled or unskilled labor of any description at very short notice. All that is necessary is to telephone officials at their office at Garden 2411 or Empire 1021 and a man or woman will be sent out immediately.

Below are listed twenty suggestions of which the householder can take advantage in the movement for the 1935 "Clean-up - Repair - Paint-up" drive:

1. Weed the garden and fix the lawns and flower beds.
2. Put in a new fence post where the old one has rotted.
3. Repair that fence where it is slightly damaged and save money later on.
4. Fix up the garage roof, the chicken house or any other outbuilding.
5. Put in a new clothesline pole because the old one is sagging.
6. Paint the outside of the house.
8. Clean out the basement and thus do away with any fire hazard that might arise.
9. Clean up the wild bushes that are growing in the back garden.
10. Remove all the old junk that accumulates from time to time in the backyard.
11. Put in those needed shingles on the roof.
12.—Have the chimney swept and do away with a lot of unnecessary smoke that dirties the neighborhood.
13. Have the rubbish removed from any nearby vacant lots, thereby enhancing the attractiveness of property and enhancing its value as well as promating health, preventing accidents and decreasing the possibility of a fire.
14. Clean out the accumulated material in that spare room or attic, which will greatly cut down on the chance of a fire in the home.
15. Return borrowed articles to neighbors and friends.
16. Return borrowed books to the library.
17. Clean windows.
18. Remove torn and dilapidated blinds or window coverings.
19. Do a general tidying-up or removal of any unsightliness.
20. Add any new structures, fences, or the like that will improve look of property as well as increasing the value.

CLEAN AND TIDY CITY IS DESIRED

Alderman F. S. Brown, acting mayor, says "The week of April 1 to 6 has been proclaimed as 'Clean-up, repair, paint-up' week and I have confidence in calling upon all citizens to do everything possible towards cleaning up and beautifying their business premises, homes and gardens. In addition to creating additional employment a clean and tidy city makes a beautiful city. Victoria is known as the city of homes and gardens and to keep our homes and gardens neat and tidy is a genuine public service and gives an impression of real citizenship to all our visitors."

City Garbage Regulations

Clean-up week this year will be from Monday, April 1 to Saturday noon, April 6, for the cleaning up of extra garbage from all places from which the city makes free collections. No calls will be taken after noon on April 5.

The garbage department will be prepared to take care care of all calls for the removal of extra rubbish that may have accumulated since last clean-up week.

Rubbish must be put together and placed easy of access in order to facilitate removal. Brush and other garden debris will not be moved by the department, but such material may be sent down to the burners and garbage scows, where facilities will be provided for the disposal of same free of charge. The fire department will be pleased to issue fire permits on application.

Telephone G-7111 and ask for the garbage department. Attention will be given to calls as near as possible in the order received.

PAINT MAKES BRIGHT HOMES

Repainting Old Furniture Also Saves Trouble With Cleaning

There is probably no other investment of a few cents, or a few dollars, that will give such pleasure and satisfaction as the money spent on paint for interior decoration. Badly marked furniture and discolored woodwork takes on a bright cheerful atmosphere almost like magic; floors glisten with the rich lustre of smooth-flowing varnish.

"You can bring the freshness of spring into your home at almost trifling cost with the products of modern paint manufacture," so say the manufacturers of Satin-Glo, who this week conduct their annual sale of Satin-Glo interior finishes in hundreds of Bapco stores throughout western Canada.

EASY TO KEEP CLEAN

Nor is the satisfaction to be derived from freshly-painted woodwork and furniture merely a matter of appearances. The surface painted with high-gloss Satin-Glo enamel is so glossy and smooth that it is a simple matter to keep it clean. Nothing lightens housework so much as keeping the interior surfaces in the home freshly painted. Walls can be given the same treatment, because the Satin-Glo Satin Finish used for this purpose is washable.

Satin-Glo dealers in British Columbia and elsewhere in western Canada now feature the annual Satin-Glo sale offering a price reduction of one-third off on three varieties of Satin-Glo, high-gloss enamel, semi-gloss satin finish and Satin-Glo varnish.

REMODELING HOME CHEAP

Complete Transformation and Renovation Need Not Cost Much Money

Everyone has, at some time or other, experienced that hopeless feeling which comes after looking at some particularly good examples of "before and after" demonstrations.

The subject is usually a decrepit old house, just two jumps ahead of condemnation proceedings, that has been transformed, magically, into an architectural gem—a thing of beauty that looks like nothing less than $20,000.

No doubt, many have looked around at their own homes and sighed, thinking that such a thing was not for the "likes of them"; that their home was just too impossible. They may stop pitying themselves, for no home is too hopless for modernization.

The remodeling possibilities in every home are unlimited. What is needed, though, is someone—an expert—to point them out. There are men—and lots of them—who are experienced in this work, and can see the good points in a home, which, no doubt, are hidden to the owner.

There is nothing magical in these transformations. It is largely a matter of training, experience, and an ability to visualize the completed job. In two words: architectural ingenuity.

NOT EXPENSIVE

The change is not always an expensive one. More often than not, it is brought about through some simple action the most modest budget can afford.

Sometimes it is as simple as replacing an unsightly porch with a modern terrace; perhaps a nondescript doorway is removed in favor of one of authentic and attractive design; old, worn-out windows replaced with more attractive and appropriate new ones; inexpensive shutters added; bulky, overhanging cornices clipped down; foundation walls concealed; new shingles over worn, decayed siding; maybe a new roof—with more interesting pitch; all these things being comparatively small operations involving little expense.

INSIDE REDECORATION

Inside, new window and door trim will help to revive the old home, and it does not cost much. New hardwood floors can be laid over old ones. A new and appropriate color scheme throughout works wonders. Built-in kitchen cabinets to replace the antiquated pantry will make that room more convenient. A disappearing stairway to the attic adds another room to the house. And, while in the attic—it can be insulated. The home will be warmer in the winter and cooler in the summer.

PLANTING HELPS

Foundation planting will sometimes "pull down" a tall, awkward looking home so that it fits more naturally into its setting. A good nurseryman will tell what to plant.

To repeat: The remodeling possibilities in a home are unlimited. They depend entirely upon the architectural ingenuity of the person directing the work.

To secure expert, competent advice as to what to do in this field, there are any number of local experts to consult with. The lumber dealer no doubt has an experienced man in his employ to assist you; any reliable contractor will know; and of course, an architect is probably the best qualified of all to serve. His training and experience equips him more adequately than any other individual in the home building field, to advise and help with any particular problem.

SEEK HOME DIVIDEND

Vancouver, April 1 (Canadian Press)—Directors of the Home Oil Company Limited are urged in a resolution passed by the shareholders at the annual meeting yesterday to consider the advisability of paying a dividend this year. All reports and balance sheets were approved.

The board of directors was reduced from fourteen to twelve members, with George S. Harrison and Gordon S. Parrell being dropped from the board. [illegible] were re-elected.

"Clean-up, Paint-up" Campaign Beneficial To Community

1. The "Clean-up—Repair—Paint-up" campaign develops community spirit. Throughout this campaign all classes of people learn to work and play together. Chronic knockers are led into the ranks of the boosters.

2. This campaign helps not only to "clean-up," but to publicly and permanently commit to cleanliness and attractiveness everything cleaned up.

3. Fire losses are reduced through the removal of waste and rubbish. Fire traps are razed and often are replaced by modern buildings.

4. Vacant grounds are improved, moved, cleared of rubbish and converted into playgrounds or thrift gardens, thus preventing their return to disorderliness.

5. Landscaping is renewed. Trees are planted.

6. Homes are cleaned and beautified inside and out.

7. Grounds, front and back, alleys and outbuildings are cleaned up. Garages and fences are repainted and repaired.

8. This campaign saves human lives. Breeding places of disease are destroyed. Flies, mosquitoes, rats, roaches and other pests are eliminated.

9. Property values are restored or increased. Warehouses and factory buildings are cleaned, repaired and painted up to an extent that visibly improves the morale and efficiency of the workers.

10. It advertises the city. Many communities have shown a more rapid growth in population after they inaugurated these campaigns than they had ever hoped to enjoy.

11. This campaign helps business by creating a lively demand among local dealers for everything needed in making homes clean and attractive and safe from fire, disease and the weather. It stabilizes, restores and increases the value of real estate and helps the bankers and the borrowers.

12. It develops good citizenship and good character.

MINISTER OF LABOR BACKS CAMPAIGN

Hon. G. S. Pearson, Minister of Labor says, "My attention has been drawn to the 'Clean-up' Campaign sponsored by the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce. The project must commend itself to the people of Victoria from three major standpoints:

Beautification of our capital city, stimulation of business, and creation of employment. The Department of Labor, through the Government Employment Bureau, is glad to assist to the fullest possible extent, and I desire to express my personal endorsement of a movement so deserving of general public support."

"Bring-back-week" At City Library

Board Will Waive Fines on Overdue Books If Returned This Week

By special permission secured from the Public Library Board in support of the "Clean-up—Repair—Paint-up" campaign to be staged this week by the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, holders of overdue books from the Victoria Public Library may return them this week without fining inquisitions.

Two hundred books are overdue on loan from the library, and many of these have been taken out as far back as twelve months ago. The "Bring-back-week" staged in conjunction with the main drive is expected to lend a spur to the return of all borrowed articles.

Besides remitting fines during this week, the Board of Library Commissioners have instructed librarians not to ask any questions when books are returned. By these means the library hopes to secure a return of a great many of the books, the return of which may have easily been overlooked in the pressure of daily business.

COMICAL RESULTS

The "Bring-bac-week" idea has already had comical results, leading to the taking back of many borrowed articles other than those which ordinarily repose on the book-shelf. Wheelbarrows, rakes, lawnmowers, other garden utensils, automobile trailers dishes and many other articles which have been borrowed in a hurry and then forgotten, are due to be returned this week. The committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in charge of the campaign is urging every householder to look amongst his belongings and return the articles he has borrowed.

Librarian are the hardest hit by the absent-minded, as the loss of books leads to a writing off of considerable sums of money in the aggregate, and the necessity of replacement of what may be single copies of works not ordinarily in demand.

That the omission occurs in nearly all cases from absent-mindedness is shown in the flux reports of those who have taken advantage of the plan to restore books to their rightful owners. One man had borrowed a book on gardening, intending to return it at the end of the week. The week passed, a month and then a succession of months, still the book was not returned. His attention drawn to the thought by "Bring-back-week" suggestions, the borrower remembered his omission and returned the book. The action healed a breach that had been widening between the neighbors, and secured two advocates of the purpose behind the drive.

WHY IT PAYS TO CLEAN-UP

Keeps up the desirability of your neighborhood.

Paint makes dark rooms lighter and interiors cheerier.

Painted surfaces are easier to keep clean and sanitary.

It is insurance on your building.

Protects your shingles against warp.

Softwood floors need protection and decoration. Paint them and avoid hard scrubbing.

Delay and decay go together.

JOBS GIVEN BY CAMPAIGN

Skilled and Unskilled Labor Available For Cleaning Tasks

This year in many homes the words "Clean-up—Repair—Paint-up" will mean far more than a renovation of house and garden; it will spell the chance to earn a few dollars, to provide proper food and clothing for the family and will be a break in the long watching of the boards of the Employment Bureau offices on Langley Street.

The Employment Service of Canada is heartily in accord with the campaign for a cleaner, brighter and more desirable city being sponsored by a special committee of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, as it affords minor jobs for the many men and women they have on their waiting lists.

MANY AVAILABLE

The slogan of the local employment office is "The Right Man for the Right Job," and officials are sure that they will be able to live up to this motto as they have both skilled and unskilled labor ready and eligible at all times. To obtain a man or a woman for odd jobs or for any particular kind of work all that is necessary is to telephone the employment office at Garden 2411 or Empire 1021.

A few dollars spent in employing someone who is really anxious to work will be repaid both in the results and also in the circulation of money. A dollar earned by a Victoria man is spent with Victoria merchants, who in turn purchase other commodities. In this way every individual can help the return of better times.

Check over your house and garden to-day and see if there is not some job that must be done which will aid you in keeping your home beautiful, and, by giving a Victoria man work, while longer along the road to the time when there will be work for all.

Scouring Around For Cleaning Aids

ORDEAL PALES BEFORE BRIGHT BUCKETS

The spring housecleaning accessories take on a polished appearance that gentlemen's scrub bucket never could attain. The latest motor-driven floor cleaner and waxer, as easy as a vacuum cleaner to operate; left, utility tray, providing compartment for cleaners, cloths and brushes needed; right, new combination cleaning pail, with soap tray, clear and soapy water compartments and space for cloth and cleansers.

DOOR CABINETS GIVE STORAGE SPACE

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

Would a pine-colored cleaning pail, an iron that does almost everything except talk or a ready-made catch-all closet for your forgetful gardener-husband's garage make the dreaded days of housecleaning look a little brighter?

Well, then, cheer up, for this year you may have all these and many more besides. Manufacturers, assisted by industrial designers who most surely have lived through many housecleanings themselves, also they would never be so sympathetic, have devised some of the nifiest gadgets you ever saw to take the stress out of the great spring round-up.

TO HANG ON DOORS

Where to put this or that is likely to be a major problem to be met, and to solve it, what could be handier than the simple metal cabinets which hung on any door, bathroom, garage or baby's room, constitute a closet in themselves? In the kitchen, for instance, with no loss of space, you have a handy receptacle for brooms, brushes, mops and cleaning cloths. In the garage put neatly house, together with other odds and ends, all the garden implements which otherwise would lie about, exposed to wind and weather.

There are cabinets, too, which will make two closets where only one grew before. And there are a great variety of hanging shelves to fit any corner which may be pointed to match the room and hold the overflow of articles that most rooms have.

The cleaning pail combines in one a pail, soap dish and holder for brushes, with a place for cleaning cloths and powders—the most convenient contrivance ever for the harried housewife. And there are two compartments, one for clear, one for soapy water. You will also love the utility tray of metal, with compartments for brushes, cleaning fluids and the like.

There is a new dry-cleaning device, too—did you know about that? Dry-cleans any object in fifteen minutes. The revolving metal cylinder has a handle which rotates the cleaner.

POLISHES WORK MIRACLES

Months of research have gone into the furniture polishes and varnishes that you will use this year. There is a varnish that you simply wipe on and it dries in about an hour, leaving a shiny surface that resists heat, alcohol and general wear and tear. There are other polishes that are especially prepared to penetrate into the grain and make the wood retain its natural glossiness.

But the iron is the cap-sheaf of the new appliances. You want to set it down, you press a button and like magic a stand swings under, supporting the iron off the board as solid and steady as a rock. When you are ready to go on ironing, the stand vanishes. You dial with pointers to the name of the material you are to press—silk, cotton or wool—and the heat is automatically regulated for that particular material.

Following a sudden thaw on the Amu Darya River, damaging floods recently swept parts of Turkestan, causing the destruction of a hydro-electric dam.

The first cut in 400 years has just been made in the walls of Salisbury Cathedral in England to make way for a new door in the north choir aisle.

MANCHUKUO IS LARGE MARKET

Japanese Auto Manufacturers See Golden Opportunity in Expanding

Canadian Press

Mukden, Manchuria, April 1.—Japanese automobile manufacturers have awakened to the immense importance of the growing market in Manchukuo, and are organizing to win the bulk of the trade from American manufacturers. European-made cars are not serious competitors in this market.

Three years ago, there were only 6,000 automobiles in all of Manchuria. To-day the number has increased to 16,000, and it is predicted that within two years there will be more than 30,000 cars in use in the country.

At present only 7,000 of the 16,000 automobiles in use in Manchukuo are of Japanese make or assemblage, and most of the rest have been imported from America. The annual value of motor car imports now exceeds 400,000,000 in Manchurian money (or $10,000,000 Canadian).

In addition to this large volume of business, Manchukuo now imports about $10,000,000 ($4,000,000 Canadian) worth of motor car parts a year, and of this business Japan so far gets only a small share. Japanese manufacturers see in this market their golden opportunity.

With the restoration of peace in Manchuria, the quick extension of thousands of miles of new highways and the gradual eradication of banditry, the Manchukuo market for automobiles and commercial vehicles is expanding with great rapidity.

Survey Kootenay Ore Possibilities

Canadian Press

Nelson, B.C., April 1.—Possibilities of the Kootenay district of British Columbia, and particularly of the Slocan, with its silver-lead-zinc ores, as an ore contributor to European smelters, are under investigation by the ore buying house of Ayrton, Cohen and Co of London.

Mr. Cohen is proceeding from here to New York, where he will spend several days before returning to England.

Vancouver Papers Reply To Premier

Sun and Province Speak Minds Plainly in Answer to Attack Made on Their Position in Opposition to New Westminster Bridge

Premier Pattullo's broadcast address of last Friday evening has drawn replies from both the Vancouver evening newspapers.

Answering the Premier's attack on it, The Sun says:

"The Premier has all the vigor and fire of statesmanship, but he has somehow misread its gestures."

Says The Province:

"It would be very interesting to watch Mr. Pattullo trying anything like that" (suppression or censorship of newspapers).

SUN EDITORIAL

The Sun's editorial, headed "A Great Fighter," follows in part:

"It was a great fighting speech that Premier Pattullo made over the radio last night. If fighting speeches would feed people, Mr. Pattullo would be entitled to public admiration. . . .

"He devoted himself for the major part of his time to scolding, damning and threatening the press.

"The newspapers, he said, had misrepresented him, vilified him and abused him.

"The Vancouver Sun, he inferred, has only helped to elect him for the express and mean fun of knocking him out again.

"He wound up his denunciation of journalism by threatening a press censorship in British Columbia similar to certain European countries. Other governments, he said, had found it necessary to gag the press. Such a control might be necessary here.

"We tremble, but not inordinately. "For after all, this is a democratic province and it is the people, not Mr. Pattullo, who rule. The people of British Columbia in thought and action are overwhelmingly Liberal else they would not be pioneering this Pacific frontier. And press censorship is not a Liberal custom. . .

"Of course, Mr. Pattullo is no longer a Liberal. He bade a last farewell to Liberalism when he sat imperially in Victoria and refused to even see municipal delegates; when he stubbornly refuses to take a hand in constructive moves such as tourists, and when he shoved through his toll bridge against the wishes of the whole province and even against the wishes of his own Liberal colleagues.

PERSONAL OPINIONS

"We could appreciate the Premier's firmness if that firmness were built on facts. But the only bridge facts which the Premier has chosen to give the public are based on the suggestions from two bridge-building firms that the present bridge is unsafe.

"If such firms were listened to, what bridge in the province would not be condemned?

"The energy that the Liberal statesman would devote to understanding the people, Mr. Pattullo devotes to gluing himself to his office chair and telling delegations to go away.

"Instead of listening to the public voice, Mr. Pattullo hires a "mike" and shouts it down.

"Instead of having his ear to the ground he has his thumb to his nose.

"But withal, the Prime Minister is a great little fighter. Whether he be Liberal or autocrat, he has a fine frenzy for something or other which at the moment is not quite clear enough to be identified.

"If life and politics and government were only as simple as a sock in the eye, what a rip-snorting hell of a fellow our T. Duff Pattullo would be."

PROVINCE EDITORIAL

"The ether was full of static last night, but it wasn't the short waves calling all cars, or anything of that sort; it was Mr. Pattullo calling us a lot of very hard names. Poor Mr. Pattullo! He went on the air last night, to give an account of himself and his government in the late session. He flew through the air with the greatest of ease—just for about one of his long, weighty sentences. Then he suddenly thought of us, and he went up and up, to the very stratosphere of righteous indignation about us. All because we had criticized him about the Fraser River Bridge.

DESCRIPTIVE TERMS

"Mr. Pattullo didn't call it criticism. He called it misrepresentation, false-hood, distortion, abuse. He said we kicked and bit and scratched him. He said we had tried to bludgeon him, only he wouldn't be bludgeoned. He said we had deliberately undertaken to destroy his government, only he wouldn't let us do it. He said we had always been against him. He said that if we kept on being that way, he might find it necessary to censor us or suppress us somehow or other, but he didn't say how. The Premier of British Columbia, radio broadcasting to the people of British Columbia an extemporaneous defence of his conduct of the public affairs of British Columbia, made a noble spectacle of himself. . . .

"There could be no doubt that something had scratched Mr. Pattullo sufficiently to get under his skin. And there couldn't be much doubt about what it was in Mr. Pattullo that was so grievously hurt. It was quite obviously Mr. Pattullo's good opinion of himself, and Mr. Pattullo's rather absurd opinion of himself—it was rather too conspicuously Mr. Pattullo's silly self-conceit.

"What Mr. Pattullo forgot when he took to the air to complain that this newspaper and some others had tried to bludgeon him was that he was talking to people who largely agree with this newspaper and some others that he has never succeeded in justifying his conduct about the Fraser River Bridge. This silly talk of bludgeons! When all British Columbia knows that he had to bludgeon a great many of his own party supporters in order to get his precious bridge bill through the House. When it is common knowledge in the whole country that the party caucus was nearly as violent in internal recrimination about this bridge as Mr. Pattullo's hysterical periods on the air last night. . . .

"UNNECESSARY CRITICISMS"

"Mr. Pattullo goes on the air and up in the air, and he is full of bitter wind of resentment, and we should like to beat him shrill and forget the whole thing. But when Mr. Pattullo, speaking twice, resentful and accusatory, criticizes, threatens and abuses, we should just like to ask him what he thinks he is. He says the newspapers go too far, because they tell him that he has not justified his policy about a bridge against the public opinion of British Columbia. But he goes too far, very much too far, when he threatens his newspaper critics with suppression or censorship. It would be very interesting to watch Mr. Pattullo trying anything like that. We should rather like to see him try it. We should like to see him appealing himself shrill enough under his Little NRA for instance. . . .

"We never misrepresented you about the bridge, Mr. Pattullo; we never misinformed our readers; we never tried to dictate to you. We said, and we say it again, that you never will succeed unless you employ more honest, more reasonable and more dignified methods than you employed in your broadcast last night. Don't threaten what you can't perform, Mr. Pattullo! Don't threaten us with suppression or censorship. You will have people laughing at you, as well as sorry for you.

"Why don't you go on the air again, Mr. Pattullo, and tell the people of British Columbia what you and your government have done about the election promises of your party, Mr. Pattullo, to produce Work and Wages?"

NEW SOLIDARITY CONFERENCE NOTE

DATA COLLECTED

"I was one of twelve on a committee to draw up the resolution representing relief. Mayor Houde was chairman, but owing to his position of mayor it was impossible for him to be active on the committee, and I was appointing chairman of a subcommittee for the preparation of the resolution. Before the resolution was drawn up I secured from the main body of the convention a statement on general social conditions, and these were embodied in the resolution.

"The final meeting of the committee was held at 9 o'clock on the final day of the conference in the office of the mayor, under my chairmanship, with Mayors Houde of Montreal and Elton of Lethbridge in attendance."

In Mayor Lanning's opinion the conference had a very steadying influence throughout Canada. "It showed," he said, "that civic heads were observing the spirit of the national song, "O, Canada, We Stand On Guard For Thee."

NO POLITICAL ISSUES

"There was no consideration given to politics. The mayors were there to try to work out the economic salvation of the country," the mayor added.

Equipped with several verbatim reports of proceedings, the mayor lauded Montreal highly for the excellent manner in which that city had staged the conference. Full reports on all proceedings would be forwarded to all mayors, he stated.

The next step in the matter will be federal action by officials at Ottawa, the mayor stated.

"There is no question about it, the government has seen the gravity of the situation and is no doubt, impressed with the necessity to alleviate the extraordinary financial strain on municipalities," the mayor declared.

ABOLITION OF POVERTY IS NOW A world-wide movement. Very good. However, some people will have a cut (it which not able to convince fellow man they are good, and then draw sins. Others will have heart failure when unable to make their society friends believe they are really rich, at the expense of their money. Conclusion: Then, why worry? Why not use the solution? Eat our wheat, whole wheat bread (free from molasses, sugar or white flour). It's Nature's food with all its red, that builds and satisfies. Live a clean life as approved of by the spirit of truth. Then a higher standard of living will be reached. Golden Loaf Bakery, 711 Fort St.

London, April 1.—Britain reached all-time peak of industrial activity during the last year, it is revealed by a survey of The Board of Trade Journal.

In manufacturing industries, even the previous peak year of 1929 was beaten by a comfortable margin. Non-ferrous metals made the greatest strides in 1934, followed by iron and steel, mines and quarries, gas and electricity, engineering and shipbuilding and textiles.

"GIGOLETTE" AT THE PLAYHOUSE

Adrienne Ames and R. Bellamy Have Roles in Picture Opening To-day

"Gigolette" is the name of the lively popular melody and the screen feature at the Playhouse Theatre where Victoria moviegoers are hearing it introduced.

While Adrienne Ames, Ralph Bellamy, Donald Cook and Robert Armstrong are performing in an episode of the story, Milton Douglas, popular operetta and musical comedy favorite, and his orchestra play the tune. "Gigolette," is a novel tradition. The scene is the dance floor of the Casino de Monaco, and Douglas sings on a mobile bandstand.

Also being shown on the second feature is Gene Stratton-Porter's "Girl of the Limberlost," starring Marian Marsh and Ralph Morgan.

"Car 99" Will Open To-morrow

Fred MacMurray, handsome Paramount player, who proved his romantic qualifications in "The Gilded Lily," emerges now as an adventurous, two-fisted fighter in the leading role of Paramount's "Car 99," which will open to-morrow at the Dominion Theatre. This story of the Michigan state police features MacMurray, Sir Guy Standing, Ann Sheridan, William Frawley, Dean Jagger and Marina Schubert.

"Car 99" is based on true incidents in the experience of this great criminal-hunting force. MacMurray portrays a young rookie encouraged by his pretty sweetheart to join the police. He emerges from the rigorous training to prove himself a hero early in his career. But, in a clash with dangerous bandits he loses his prisoners through carelessness and is broken as a result.

"The Bowery" At Columbia

Hilarious fun and stark tragedy are promised with the arrival of Wallace Beery, George Raft, Jackie Cooper, Fay Wray, Fort Edison and a host of other celebrities in "The Bowery" at the Columbia Theatre.

"The Bowery" brings back the music and dances of the '90's, brazen chorus girls, bustled young ladies, blonde O'Grady with puffed sleeves, Bowery boys with puffed eyes, swell fellows that were on the square, beer with a punch and love's young dream along "the livest mile on the face of the globe"—New York's famous Bowery.

Also being shown to the added feature is H. B. Warner in "Social and Sun."

Royal Oak

The students' practice dance, held in the Royal Oak Community Hall under the auspices of the Royal Oak Women's Institute, was well attended Friday evening. Another practice dance will be held in the Community Hall April 12.

After the regular weekly meeting of the Royal Oak Boy Scouts at the home of the scoutmaster, V. R. L. Goddard, the boys were entertained at the home of Mrs. F. Reeves on Santa Clara Avenue, the occasion being the thirteen birthday of her son, John. A surprise birthday cake, with thirteen candles, held place of honor on the table. Outdoor games were enjoyed by the boys. Those present included Frank Lane, Percy Stevenson, Billy Quick, John Hudson, John Reeves, Robt Stevenson, Leslie Matthews and Joe Perry.

Minstrel Show Here On Friday

An old-time minstrel show, with modern acts added for good measure, will be in Victoria this coming week-end, it was announced Saturday by Ralph Calladine, manager of the Empire Theatre.

"Georgia Minstrels" are well-known in all parts of the North American continent. During their present tour they have attracted large audiences all the way across from New York. There are thirty comedians, singers and dancers with this revue.

Lasses Brown and Tim Cordley, billed as the "Kings of Comedy," top the stage acts. Brown is regarded as the leading colored comedian on the stage in North America to-day. He started out as a youngster on the levee in Vicksburg, Miss., and from there made his way to New York and Broadway.

Other features with "Georgia Minstrels" are "The Harlem Hot Shots" and the "Singing Quartette," composed of Lee Glover, Chester Jones, George Jones and Earl Hill. There is also a male ensemble chorus and brass-band gag men and end men. It will open at the Empire on Friday and show also at several performances on Saturday.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Ronald Colman's fans will get their idol without his famous mustache for the first time in "Clive of India," Twentieth Century's first million-dollar production for release through United Artists, now at the Capitol Theatre. Ronald sacrificed the adornment in the interest of historical accuracy, for research determined that Robert Clive was clean-shaven.

URGES DRIVE FOR TOURISTS

George Straith Says European Countries Find It Profitable Business

After seeing what other countries are doing to attract tourists, George Straith, who has just returned from a tour in Europe, points to the opportunity Victoria has to develop its tourist industry.

Great Britain, France and Italy, realizing what tourists mean, are making great efforts to attract travelers and to hold them when they get them there, said Mr. Straith.

France lost much of her tourist trade because of her greedy attitude towards visitors, but was now exerting itself to regain the business, he said. England is becoming more the centre of travel in Europe.

A consistent supporter of the tourist industry in Canada, Mr. Straith considers the time is now opportune for Victoria and Vancouver Island to carry on an aggressive campaign in order to build up the tourist business.

Mr. and Mrs. Straith left here January 12 last and visited London, Paris, Rome, Florence and Monte Carlo in the course of their tour of Europe.

While in Paris, Mr. Straith, who is an ardent hockey fan, witnessed a 5-5 draw between a French team and the Winnipeg Monarchs. The game was watched by 16,000 excited fans. Clifford O'Meara, one-time captain of the Victoria Cubs hockey team, was manager of the Winnipeg Monarchs.

Progress of the clean-up and paint-up campaign being conducted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce this week was reported by George Beck to the directors of the senior body at the luncheon in Spencer's dining-room to-day. Mr. Beck expressed appreciation of the financial assistance given the campaign by local merchants and also tribute to the work of William G. Findley, secretary, in connection with the drive. Frank H. Partridge reported a committee of the junior group was investigating the possibility of an arrangement to avoid confusion of the names of Vancouver City and Vancouver Island in out-of-town news items.

Want Steamers To Call Here

Chamber of Commerce Committee to Investigate Move of Companies

Steps to overcome the situation existing on Victoria's waterfront which has resulted in the Admiral Line and Alaska Steamship Company steamers passing Victoria up on their northbound trips will be taken immediately by the Chamber of Commerce directors.

The directors were informed at their luncheon in Spencer's dining-room to-day that Admiral liners had not called at Victoria on their last three northbound trips from California, and the Alaska Steamship Company had cut out the port of Victoria on the northern trips.

This, it was pointed out, had a serious effect on business here, affecting sightseeing firms, hotels and other concerns which benefited from the temporary stopovers of ships.

George McGregor explained the action of the companies. In the case of the Admiral Line, it was cheaper to send the ship on to Seattle and ship passengers back to Victoria via C.P.R., than call in here after 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when it was necessary to pay overtime to customs and immigration officials boarding the ship. Mr. McGregor pointed out that the officials were paid until 5 o'clock by the government, but after that the overtime was paid by the ship.

The instances in which the Admiral ships have failed to call here were when they were four or five hours late due to bad weather. Then they had proceeded straight to the Sound City, it was stated.

The Alaska Steamship Company, the directors were told, has cut Victoria out of the schedule for the same reason. Mr. McGregor explained it was not a question of labor charges which caused the ships to pass up Victoria.

REFUNDING IS VITAL MATTER

Province Hopes to Liquidate Its Debts, Norman W. Whittaker Tells Gyros

"There will undoubtedly be a refunding of the province's debts at a lower rate of interest, and this should be logically carried out with the assistance of the Dominion Government," stated Norman W. Whittaker, M.P.P. for Saanich, when speaking to members of the Gyro Club at luncheon to-day at the Empress Hotel on highlights of the recent session of the British Columbia Legislature.

"Any province, however, desiring to refund its debts at a lower rate of interest must show a sincere attempt to balance its budget," Mr. Whittaker continued. "Mr. Hart went seriously about his job of balancing the budget and the credit of the province is now in a better condition than it was and the British Columbia Government is very much nearer its refunding scheme."

The speaker briefly outlined the proposals for the refunding scheme. The new securities will mature in thirty years and the saving for the first five years will be $6,000,000 a year and for the remaining twenty years the saving will be $3,000,000 a year. In this way the entire debt of $127,000,000 will be liquidated in thirty years.

"This refunding of the provincial debt is a very vital matter," Mr. Whittaker said. "Any province not showing a sincere desire to balance its budget on current account will not receive any assistance from the Dominion Government."

The speaker dealt with several amendments to various acts, mentioning the Minimum Wage Act, which, he said, had been effective as the industrial payroll of the province had increased $600,000 a month since the act came into effect. Such an act was an absolute necessity, he said, although it undoubtedly worked hardships in certain cases.

A new home for aged seniles was ordered built at Duncan; Vancouver was given sufficient assistance to carry on for a year; a health insurance act was prepared but not passed and several amendments to the municipal act were passed during the session, Mr. Whittaker said.

A home can now be sold for arrears in water just as it can for arrears in taxes, Mr. Whittaker pointed out, referring to the changes in the Municipal Act. A person buying a home must now look into arrears in water as well as tax arrears, he said. In the city this was not so important but in Saanich, for instance, where in the summer the water bill is frequently $150, it is a matter of great importance.

Mr. Whittaker spoke at some length on the proposed Fraser River bridge.

"I would personally hesitate to take the risk of another bridge disaster similar to the Point Ellice disaster of some years ago," he said.

He said a great deal of criticism, in his opinion, came from a lack of understanding of the facts. The present bridge was built in 1904 for horse and buggy traffic. At that time the present traffic was not dreamed of. The Fraser River Bridge Company, he declared, was responsible and its heads had had widespread experience in this type of work. The bridge would take three years to complete.

"The season this year lasted six weeks and that was long enough for most of us, although Mr. Pattullo intimated the next session may last three months," Mr. Whittaker said.

William Hudson introduced the speaker, who was thanked by Leonard Woodhouse, president of the club, who was in the chair.

FUNERAL TO-MORROW

Eylands of Bellingham, Wash., will conduct the services, after which the remains will be laid at rest in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Saanich's "Mighty Atom" Carries Powerful Punch

Many fighters have been referred to as the "Mighty Atom," but they all look like normal nature alongside Lisette "Babe" de Lure, who attends West Saanich School, is thirteen years old, and fully clothed tips the scale at about seventy pounds.

This little mite flashed on to the front pages of the newspapers across Canada last week as a result of her encounter with a roving five-year-old Jersey bull. She struck this great brute, which was pawing the life out of her father, stretched helpless on the ground, such a smashing blow behind the ear that the whining Jersey turned tail and did not stop running until he was short of wind a mile away.

"Babe" and her dad, C. H. de Lure, who milks sixteen head of cattle at his farm on Durrant Road, Saanich, were leading the Jersey bull from the barn to the pasture when it turned wild. This was the second time the bull had tried his monkey-tricks. Previously he had tried to gore the hired hand. Mr. de Lure did not have a pole from the ring in the bull's nose and was helpless to handle him when he charged.

Mr. de Lure was carried off his feet by the first thrust of the bull. Tossed to the ground, Mr. de Lure seized the bull's horns and squeezed between them and thus forestalled a goring. The bull pressed his blunt, flat face on the chest of Mr. de Lure and crushed several ribs.

"Babe" had in her hands a claw-hammer and some nails with which her father had intended fixing the fence when they had pastured the bull.

Disregarding her own safety, she picked the spot to smack the bull—right behind the ear.

"Why did you hit him there?" she was asked by a member of The Times staff.

"That's the bull's soft spot. There would be no use hitting him on the face or head; it's too hard," this gallant young miss replied.

So cool was her aim; so punishing the blow, that the bull reared his head and tore for safer parts.

"Babe" did not hasten for her house, but immediately raced to the road to warn some pedestrians that a mad bull was loose.

Word quickly reached the home, however, and the hired boy, Les Gibson, started out with a pitchfork to make the bull behave, and a neighbor got his shotgun and said he would "put some hot lead in him."

Mr. de Lure has been suffering considerably from his bruising encounter, but his fine-spirited young daughter has been carrying on, milking five cows each day and helping in the deliveries. And on top of that she has been nursing her dad. She expected she would be able to return to school to-day.

"Babe" was born in Blairmore, Alberta, and came to Victoria eight years ago.

She ranks as British Columbia's No. 1 heroine for 1935.

April Fools' Day Worry To Police

Headquarters Phone Rung Constantly by Persons Who Have Police Number Left For Them to Call.

April Fools' Day may be the means of lots of practical pokers having their day, but it is just a source of annoyance for the desk man at the charge office in the City Police Station, who was kept busy until noon to-day answering "phoney" calls.

Acting Sergeant Percy W. Richards, who was on duty this morning, had answered no less than about twenty calls up to 9.30 this morning. The usual line of conversation went something like this, at the police end.

"Who?" asked the somewhat amazed voice at the other end.

"The police station."

"Well, was somebody there calling Mr. So and So?"

"No, you must be the victim of another April fool joker."

"Oh, yes," the victim replies rather sheepishly, hanging up.

Appointments Are Approved

Island Magistrate Has Jurisdiction Changed; J.P.'s Named

The provincial government to-day ratified a number of minor appointments at different parts of the province, coming into effect with the beginning of the fiscal year.

The jurisdiction of G. A. Tisdall as stipendiary magistrate was transferred from the Cowichan-Newcastle electoral riding to the counties of Victoria and Nanaimo.

Frederick T. Salsbury, Deep Bay, was named a justice of the peace. Robert E. Crerar of Nelson and C. H. Tonkin, Vancouver police court clerk, were given similar commissions.

Resignations were approved of J. A. Sherwood of Hudson's Hope as coroner and justice of the peace, and J. Frank Still, Altona Lake, and George Haddon, Vancouver, as justices of the peace. Commission of Olaf T. Sundal, Terrace, as justice of the peace and stipendiary magistrate was cancelled.

Dr. H. C. Wrinch, Hamilton, was appointed coroner. J. P. Scarlett, Barberville, was also named a coroner.

IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of Sarah Willows, who passed away in this city on Wednesday, took place on Saturday afternoon. Rev. H. J. Armitage conducted the service, during which the hymns "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me" were sung. Interment was in Colwood Burial Park. The following acted as pallbearers: J. Williams, H. C. Williams, G. Rogers and J. T. Clark.

MOVE TO CLEAR UP SHANTYTOWN

Approximately 150 squatters on Kitsilano Beach, Vancouver, will have to vacate by June 30, under provincial order.

They were to have moved by March 31, but following receipt of numerous petitions asking further time, the government granted a three months' extension.

During the depression period, it is stated, the beach has become a regular "shantytown," with many families living in beached houseboats and tumbledown shacks.

Complaints that the squatters' settlement constituted a nuisance were followed up with investigation by health authorities, who found the shacks constituted a health menace.

MAYOR COVERS 8,000 MILES

Back From Trips Across Continent, City's Chief Magistrate Looks at Budget

Back at his desk after a sixteen-day tour during which he covered 8,000 miles, a lot of it by air, Mayor David Leeming to-day devoted his attention to local civic business.

Among the first matters which engaged his attention were the civic estimates. He indicated his intention of swinging immediately into the budget in an effort to get the mill rate settled as quickly as possible.

Seven days of his tour were devoted to publicity work in Montana, where he spoke in four cities, met representative business men and addressed social service clubs.

He left Butte, Montana, at 11.30 o'clock on the morning of March 29 by plane but was delayed in Chicago four hours and was forced to change his itinerary on the way east. He arrived at Montreal about ten minutes before the mayors' conference got under way.

The mayor returned by plane from Montreal to Seattle, leaving the Quebec metropolis at 2 o'clock, Friday afternoon, and arriving in Seattle, despite delays, at 8.30 o'clock Saturday evening.

He crossed the Rockies at an elevation of about 18,500 feet. During the course of his travels he stopped off at New York, Chicago, Boston and many other cities, but was kept, for the most part, in waiting-rooms—waiting for planes or trains to depart.

Although unable to visit many prominent figures in the United States on his return trip, the mayor stated those with whom he came into contact in planes held views similar to those expressed by Mayor G. G. McGeer of Vancouver.

Relief Is Down Eight Per Cent

Provincial Figures Show 104,713 Dependent on Public Aid

British Columbia relief rolls in February were down about 8 per cent from last year.

Figures given out by the provincial relief department to-day recorded a total of 104,713 persons dependent on relief during the month. This compares with 113,806 in February last year and 109,771 in January.

The total is segregated into 21,209 heads of families, 59,504 dependents, and 24,000 single persons, the latter including 9,189 men in national defence camps.

It was pointed out the February totals included a number of families in the flooded Sumas area, so that the aggregate of actually unemployed was slightly lower than the figures given.

J. Celona Is Heard At Trial

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 1. — Other than running bookmaking and gambling in the basement of the Maple Hotel in Vancouver, Joe Celona swore in the Assize Court here to-day he had nothing to do with the hotel.

Celona took the witness stand in his own defence when trial of a procuring charge against himself, Clarence Bancroft and Ellen Joyce was resumed.

He stated he first saw the two girls, whom he is charged with procuring, at Bancroft's house on June 25. Bancroft, he said, invited him. Frank Turone and two friends from San Francisco to come to his place. There the men from San Francisco asked for wine and suggested champagne. Turone ordered the champagne, according to Celona, and he, Celona, had nothing to do with it.

Celona testified he had nothing to say to either of the girls that night. He stated that was the only occasion he was in the Bancroft house. He declared he never had any conversation in Bancroft's house about Chinese.

Questioned by Stuart Henderson, his counsel, Celona declared he did not know the alleged brothel concerned in the case.

Capt. M. E. Adeane and Capt. Fisher Rowe have arrived at the Empress Hotel from Ottawa to act as aides to Lord Bessborough during the remainder of his stay at Government House. They will succeed Sir Michael Culme Seymour and Capt. Willis O'Connor, who are returning east.

Under an agreement between the city and the government ratified to-day Port Alberni will pay $4,000 a year for the provincial police service. The Attorney-General stepped in and took over police administration there last fall and subsequently the people voted to continue the arrangement.

Varsity Protest Thrown Out By B.C. Basketball Council

THE SPORTS MIRROR

CONNIE MACK will present another youthful, untried team wearing the "A" of hallowed baseball memory this season. Then there is the startling experiment of turning a sterling first baseman and home-run slugger into a catcher. Connie is frank enough to say that the final standing of the Philadelphia Athletics depends on the ability of Jim Foxx to handle his young pitchers and to play as well as he did at first base. The position is not new to Foxx. He came up to the big leagues as a catcher, but was converted into a first baseman and his record proves he was a good one too.

Dismantling a winning combination is nothing new to the silver-haired mentor and treasurer of the Athletics. He has not had a winner since 1931. He did have a powerful club until he was forced to sell Lefty Grove, Jimmy Dykes, George Earnshaw, Al Simmons, Max Bishop and Rube Walberg. These were good players in their own right, but, remember away back when the so-called White Elephants with Eddie Plank, Jack Coombs, Eddie Collins, Home-run Baker and others ruled the American League? Winning ball games and pennants became so monotonous that Connie broke up the team, distributed the players and so strengthened other teams that the race would become closer. Connie commenced to rebuild with the younger players and made a good job of it.

The question is, "What will he do this year?"

The outlook is glum indeed. Last season the A's finished in fifth place. They failed to win 50 per cent of the games played, and only the failure of the crippled Washington Senators to play up to their real strength enabled the A's to finish as high as they did.

Last season Connie had high hopes of Frankie Hayes coming through and taking care of the catching department. Frankie did as well as could be expected from a young man suddenly boosted into a regular position with a major league club. But Mack proved his judgment was at fault by turning Hayes loose early this year, converting Foxx into a catcher and keeping the thirty-two-year-old Charley Berry as second-string receiver. How Connie would like to have the scrappy Mickey Cochrane back!

The pitching department is also an untried quantity. Relying on Johnny Marcum, Joe Cascarella, Sugar Cain, Leroy Mahaffey and Bill Dietrich to hold up the team is a risky proposition.

Marcum made good last year and may better his record this year. He won fourteen and lost eleven in the year 1934, which was not bad for a first-year man. Next came Mahaffey with six victories and seven defeats. Cascarella with twelve and fifteen, and Alton Benton, who could only account for seven victories while dropping nine games. Sugar Cain was Connie Mack's biggest disappointment, although all the blame should not be put on Cain's shoulders. The A's just would not hit when Sugar walked on the mound. Sugar dropped seventeen games last year while winning only nine, but at the same time was the most effective hurler in Mack's brigade, showing an earned run average of only 4.60 per game.

When it takes six pitchers to win fifty-seven of the sixty-eight games credited to the A's in the final standing, it must be admitted that Connie Mack looks for a miracle, and, no less, to finish as high as he did in 1934.

Mack has but four infielders, not counting Foxx, who played with him last year. Pinky Higgins, Dib Williams and Eric McNair. Dib Williams and Hal Warner. He is bringing up Alex Hooks to play first. This Western Leaguer is in a tougher spot than George Selkirk, who is expected to take Babe Ruth's place in right field for the New York Yankees. At least Selkirk has had class AA experience and a taste of major league pitching. Hooks belted them a mile for the Tulsa club. But he may find the Western League is a kindergarten as compared to American Legue. Hooks on first, Williams or English at second, McNair and Newsome, also from Tulsa, at short and Higgins at third gives Mack one of the lightest hitting infields he has ever had.

The outfield is not so bad, in that he has hold-overs such as Lou Finney, Ed Coleman, Bob Johnson and Roger Cramer to patrol the outer gardens. Cramer and Johnson batted better than .300, while Finney and Coleman dropped a little below the charmed circle. However, the latter pair look better in spring training. Then Mack has the youthful Wally Moses who hit hard against a counter Gulf of Mexico wind at Galveston and a speed merchant on the bags to fight it out with one of the regulars for a steady job.

Frankly, there is not much hope for Connie Mack and his assortment of veterans, plentifully mixed up with youngsters, to be any better than the National League team representing Philadelphia. Only one team, the St. Louis Browns, look weaker on paper. The fight to stay out of the cellar lies between them. Unless Lady Luck smiles on his hitherto unfortunate team, they are doomed for eighth and last place in the pennant race.

RIBBONS BATTLE KELOWNA HERE

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 1.—A verdict of "no replay" was returned yesterday by a jury of British Columbia basketball officials after six hours of debating on the case of Varsity vs. Victoria Blue Ribbons, following an appeal by the students against the Ribbons's one-point win in the final game of the provincial senior A men's championship at Victoria.

The Victoria team, the referees and the fans were found "not guilty" on eleven counts cited in the Varsity protest. The Collegians charged mainly that the floor was not regulation because the crowd encroached on its boundaries, that substitutions could not be properly made, that the players were "intimidated" by a bombardment of foreign matter from the crowd, and that Referee Alan Le Marquand, Victoria, erred in some of his calls.

Officials of the association stated no action could be taken on the point of the crowd encroaching on the floor because the same condition had obtained during the first two games in Victoria, and no protest was forthcoming following either of those contests.

EQUALLY GUILTY

They also pointed out Varsity supporters were equally guilty with the Victoria fans of pelting the players with various missiles and that the person who threw the Indian club did not aim it as a Varsity man, but merely tossed it out on the floor.

Regarding the inability of Varsity players to obtain immediate entry into the game in substitutions, officials said this was a matter beyond the control of the scorer and timer who sounded the proper signal, but could not make themselves heard owing to the din created by the fans.

As to Referee Alan Le Marquand's decision awarding Victoria a free throw when Art Willoughby of Varsity thanked him for handing him the ball, the executives felt it was entirely a matter of the referee's judgment, which they were powerless to rule on. The referee, it was pointed out, was approved by the B.C. Referees' Board as a class A official.

The Victoria representatives, however, announced that a repetition of last Wednesday's display by the crowd would result in the Blue Ribbons defaulting the game to the visiting team.

NAME REFEREES

Dates of the senior A vs. senior B series between Kelowna Famous Players and the Blue Ribbons, previously announced as next Wednesday and Thursday, have been changed to Friday and Saturday. Joe Polley, Vancouver, and "Toots" Lewis, Nanaimo, will be the referees.

The meeting was attended by Gordon Wooldridge, J. A. Barnwell, Alex McKechnie and "Red" Martin, Victoria; Tom Lewis, Nanaimo; Art Stevenson, Kamloops; Chester Williamson, New Westminster; Joe Polley, Ken Walton, Jimmy Bardsley, Fred Hollon, John Pryor and Walter Hardwick, Vancouver.

R. E. S. Wyatt Badly Injured

Famous English Cricketer Returns From Tour With Fractured Jaw

London, April 1—R. E. S. Wyatt, popular Warwickshire cricketer, who captained the Marylebone cricket Club team which toured the West Indies this winter, may be lost to the game during the coming season.

When the players arrived yesterday, Wyatt's face was heavily bandaged. It is feared his jaw was fractured in three places in the last test match against the West Indies when he was struck by a rising ball.

Of the five tests, West Indies won two, England one and two were drawn.

Learie Constantine, great West Indian all-rounder, returned with the team. Although he will not play in English cricket this summer, Constantine declared the West Indies' success in the tests was due to fast bowling and the all-round improvement of the side.

"The West Indies have a very fine bowling side on their own fast wickets which are probably the best in the world," said Captain Wyatt. "Martindale, Constantine and Hylton are bowlers of the highest class and Headley and Sealey are equally fine batsmen."

Wyatt added the English team needed more spin bowling and the batting of his men throughout the tour was disappointing.

"We had to play too soon after our arrival," he said. "We should have been allowed more time for practice. The test at Barbadoes was played on the most difficult wicket I have ever seen."

Reg. Shanks Wins Reliability Test

Covers Grueling 100-mile Course to Score 921 Points Out of Possible 1,000 in Victoria Motorcycle Club's Competition For Kirk Trophy

Securing 921 points out of a possible 1,000, Reg. Shanks yesterday won the 100-mile reliability test staged by the Victoria Motorcycle Club for the Kirk Trophy. Bob Shanks placed second with a total of 916, with Bill Lucas third with 901. Starting from the City Hall at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, the riders covered a course that took in practically the entire Saanich Peninsula.

Reg. Shanks already holds the Brentwood Cup for a reliability test, but yesterday was the first time he has ever won the Kirk Trophy. In his winning ride Shanks lost sixty-nine points at time-clock checks and ten points at secret checks.

BOB SHANKS FIRST

The prize for riding ability was awarded to Bob Shanks, who lost only eight points.

The course was so stiff that Brian Carmichael, defending champion, and Joe Andrews, another former winner, were forced out.

Reg Shanks	921
Bob Shanks	916
Bill Lucas	901
Ed. Seedhouse	900
Doug Hamilton	899
Reg. Rigby	896

CHINESE LOSE BY ODD BASKET

Students Drop 40 to 38 Intermediate B Decision to Ryerson United, Vancouver

Sinking the tying basket and then running in another all in the last minute of play, Williamson brought Ryerson United, Vancouver, through to a 40 to 38 win over Chinese Students in the coast final of the intermediate B boys' basketball playoffs at Victoria High gym Saturday evening.

The Students led most of the way and appeared to have the game just before the final whistle, but the sharpshooting see of the mainland squad came through to rob them of victory and send the Vancouver team into the provincial finals in their division.

In a preliminary game, St. Louis took their second straight game from the Regals, 23 to 16, to assure the Royal Juvenile Athletic Association Basketball League championship. The Collegians won the first game 30 to 27.

LOCALS TAKE LEAD

Falling to hit their stride in the first period, Vancouver's Ryerson United trailed at the short end of a 20 to 14 count at the interval. However, they popped up their attack and closed the gap until it was a neck and neck race as the game drew to a close. Then Williamson came through with the deciding basketa and the final whistle sounded without the Chinese boys making a return.

George Lowe was high scorer of the fixture, dropping through baskets for eighteen points, while Davies, with thirteen, and Williamson, with twelve, were leaders for the visitors.

Ralph Thomas and Alan LeMarquand handled the Chinese-Ryerson game, while Walter Tessmann was in charge of the opening fixture.

If a fourth game is necessary it will be played at Montreal on Thursday, April 11. If the series goes the full five games the last contest will be at Toronto on Saturday, April 13.

KHAN LOSES TO LEO BURKE

Afghan Mat Star Defeated By Tacoma Man; Conway and Johnson Draw

Leo Burke, fighter and wrestler from Tacoma, beat Abdel Khan, the colorful Afghan wrestler, two falls to one in the no-round finished battle at the Tillicum gymnasium Saturday in which Johnny Pears featured quite frequently as the third wrestler.

It was a bout in which virtually everything was permitted except a one-finger hold and Khan ignored that restriction, too. Fists flew freely throughout and the battle provided the thrills the fans, who had seen the two men in action before, anticipated.

Khan got the first fall after about fifteen minutes. After a series of rabbit punches he got on a Boston crab which made Leo tap the mat. Burke only took six minutes after the five minutes' rest to pin Khan. After some flying mares he pinned the Afghan to the mat.

After the interval Khan raced across the ring with fists doubled a second before the gong sounded and after clouting Leo a couple of times got a stranglehold. Pears tried to break it and got a rabbit punch from the Afghan. Three of them were in the mix-up when Burke stepped around to slam the Afghan to the floor.

"Gentleman" Jack Conway, who strutted his stuff with the dignity of W. C. Fields as Wilkins Micawber, got a draw with Gus Johnson.

JIMMY FOXX IS ON SPOT

Famous Philadelphia Slugger Must Come Through Behind the Plate

Atlanta, Ga., April 1.—This would be a great day to pull the prediction that the Philadelphia Athletics will win the American League pennant, then leave town. Just as the A's are going themselves. Unfortunately the joker in the calendar would be detected quickly. Besides, the A's won't win the pennant and Jimmy Foxx would be irritated.

The extra "x" in Jimmy's name marks the spot he is on this spring, doing backstopping for the venerable Connie Mack's youthful aggregation and running the risk of checking abruptly the career of one of the greatest batsmen in the American League. After a month behind the bat during the season of the year when pitchers, especially young pitchers, are at their wildest, Foxx is unscathed and has nothing more than a mild backache to complain about.

It is not generally known, but Mack wanted to shift Foxx from first base to the catching department last year. Jimmy preferred first base and he declined to change jobs to fill the big gap caused by Mickey Cochrane's departure.

"It's a different position this spring," admits Foxx. "It's a tougher job for me behind the plate, but I'm satisfied now I can really help the club, also that we are going somewhere.

Alton Benton, Bill Dietrich and Merritt (Sugar) Cain look like the three flingers around whom Mack will build his 1935 staff, but Foxx will carry the main burden of handling them and developing others.

Admirals in Soccer Win Over Burnside

Battling in the Saanich Football League yesterday afternoon, Marigold eleven and Strawberry Vale drew 2 to 2, in the first match of a doubleheader at the Hampton Road grounds. In the second fixture the Admirals defeated Burnside 3 to 1. Victoria Indians came through to victory over the Bluebirds by a score of 4 to 0 at the Indian reserve.

A meeting of the Esquimalt football team will be held in the club quarters to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Canadian Clubs Will Battle in Series For Stanley Cup; Pep Kelly Hero in Toronto's 2 to 1 Overtime Win Over Boston; Maroons Tie Rangers 3 to 3 to Win Round 5 to 4

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, April 1.—Regis (Pep) Kelly, the curly-headed Irish kid who jostled Ken Doraty into the minors, depriving Toronto Maple Leafs of one of hockey's greatest pinch-scorers, found himself seated to-day on the unique Doraty throne—a National League playoff hero.

He's there because he brought the N.H.L. championship to Toronto Saturday night by firing two dramatic shots that gave the Leafs a 2 to 1 overtime triumph over Boston Bruins in the fourth game of the classic series.

Not even Doraty's famous drive that broke up a 104-minute overtime struggle in the 1933 series took more effect.

CROWD IN FRENZY

The twin deliveries of the twenty-one-year-old Kelly, playing his first season as a professional, sent a near-record crowd of 14,850 into a frenzy of joy. The first broke a spell of gloom that had pervaded Maple Leaf Gardens since late in the first period when the gallant Bruins swept into a one-goal lead.

It occurred at the 18.11 mark in the third period, when Babe Siebert and Peggy O'Neill of the Bruins and Harold Cotton of the Leafs were crowded in the penalty box. If the shot was not sufficient to make the name Kelly immortal in these parts, the pepper-pot from North Bay, Ont., quickly rectified that.

One minute and thirty-six seconds after the start of the sudden-death overtime period, the rookie leaped out of the penalty box, where he had put in a spell with the still incarcerated Siebert, O'Neill and Cotton. He ripped into Boston territory and within six seconds broke up the game.

Until the way was paved for this drama, the Bruins had outplayed the Leafs, fighting grimly in an effort to square the series at two wins each and force a fifth game. Only spectacular puck-stopping by George Hainsworth had kept the Bruin assault within limits.

Red Beattie, one of the most effective forwards in the series, had whipped in a pass from Nels Stewart at the 15.45 mark in the first period a few seconds after Nels himself misfired when he had an open net in front of him. Hainsworth was unrelenting in recurring crises, diving headlong into two or three attackers to spoil shots.

Except for Red Beattie's penalty in the second period, the Bruins had stayed on the ice, but when Siebert accidentally tripped Frank Finnigan and drew a minor penalty late in the third period Cotton knocked in a pass from Joe Primeau only to have the goal disallowed because Baldy was in the goal crease. Cotton protested, swung his arms, argued with Goaler Thompson and many other players.

MAJOR PENALTIES

The result was a near-skirmish and major penalties for Cotton and O'Neill, while Siebert, who had jumped from the penalty box to participate in the squabble, had two minutes added to his sentence.

O'Neill and Cotton were still on the sidelines when it was all over, when Kelly had fired his tying and winning blows. Siebert had just finished his penalty and was rushing to the help of his mates when the winning tally was scored. His jump overboard during the argument had been expensive.

Montreal, April 1.—Survivor of as gripping a struggle as any the game has seen, Montreal Maroons were quietly confident to-day as they faced a five-game series with Toronto Maple Leafs for the Stanley Cup and world professional hockey title. Last season's cup - winning Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers were eliminated in Maroons's climb to the finals.

The same stubborn defensive game used against Chicago until a break came proved good enough to earn a 3 to 3 tie for Maroons Saturday despite a daring, smashing Ranger offensive that never let up after the first five minutes. It was not enough to wipe out the 2 to 1 margin Maroons won in New York, but it kept a crowd of 11,000 tensed until the final bell signalled Maroons had the round 5 to 4.

BREAK FOR MAROONS

Rangers fought like champions even when the breaks went against them, and Maroons got the first goal when Cy Wentworth's blueline shot beat Dave Kerr in the first period—a shot

Esquimalt-Wests Reach Cup Final

Defeat Saanich Thistles and Victoria City, Respectively, in Province Cup Football; Will Play Final Next Saturday

Defeating Saanich Thistles and Victoria City, respectively, Esquimalt and the Victoria West first division soccer elevens, battled their way into the final of the Province Cup series at the Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon before a good crowd. In the first half of the double-header Esquimalt needed half-an-hour overtime to whip the newly-crowned city champions 4 to 3, while the Wests accounted for the City 2 to 1.

Next Saturday will see the Esquimalt and Wests clash in the deciding round with the winner to oppose Nanaimo here in the Island final

After only one goal had been scored by the Thistles in the first half of the opening match the teams put on a scoring spree after the interval and before the finish no less than six counters were chalked up. The Thistles managed to take the lead three times during the match but the Duchess always had enough punch left to rally and even matters again and at the finish managed to get home the winning marker.

THISTLES PRESS

Thistles forced early pressure and DeCosta, Esquimalt goalie, was called on to push a hard drive from Ed Browne, Saanich outside left, over the bar for a corner. Minutes later Pearce sent in a high lob that De Costa punched clear and Morgan banged the rebound against the side of the net with terrific force. At the other end Easler conceded a corner but John Watt kicked behind. Chalmers, Saanich net minder, dived across his goal to block a shot from Stewart that deflected off Easler and nearly beat the goalie.

After twenty-five minutes play the Thistles took the lead on a goal by Browne. The clever little winger, after taking a cross from Viggers, side-stepped Sweeney and picked the small side of the net to beat De Costa. At this stage Jock McKay replaced Joe Watt at right half for Esquimalt.

Four minutes after the start of the second half Esquimalt tied matters. John Watt taking a pass from Stewart and picking the corner. The Thistles, however, regained the lead three minutes later. Sweeney headed out a long shot by Browne and Morgan took the clearance in the air to beat De Costa with a stinging drive to the top of the net. Goals continued to come fast and Esquimalt got back onto even terms when awarded a penalty for Harper knocking over John Watt. The latter scored from the spot kick.

REGAIN LEAD

Still showing plenty of fight the Thistles once more took the lead on Browne's second tally. In a battle with Sweeney for possession of the ball the winger got in a shot over the full-back's head and it fooled De Costa to catch the far corner of the net. In an effort to hold their lead the Thistles substituted Freddie Gibbons and Joe Crowe for Harper and Price. With the end of the game drawing near Esquimalt worked hard to tie the score and were successful when a long bouncing shot by Stewart beat Chalmers.

The first half of the overtime saw Esquimalt get the winning goal Mike Wagland tricking his way through the Saanich back division to boot a cross shot into the corner of the goal.

D. McMillan refereed.

The teams follow:

Saanich Thistles—Chalmers; Easler, Harper; Williams, Pearce, Spaller; Viggers, Price Leggett, Morgan, Browne, Gibbons and Crowe.

Esquimalt—De Costa; Sweeney, March; Joe Watt, Boyd, Wallace; John Watt, Holtum, Stewart, Wagland, Barnswell and McKay.

In their match with the City the Wests opened the scoring about thirty-five minutes after the start of play, when Gordie Bell, outside right, scored with a hard shot after receiving a fine pass from Purse. The City squad came through to even the score five-minutes later when Youson scored with bullet force following Payne's corner kick. The rest interval saw the teams tied 1 to 1.

The first canto saw the Wests have a slight edge on the play, although for the first thirty minutes or so play swung in either direction with both teams missing fine opportunities.

Lorandini scored the last marker of the match and boosted the Wests into the lead ten minutes after the resumption of play. He drove with sizzling force from well outside the penalty area, right through the entire City's defence and past the unprepared goalie.

The Wests were not functioning as well in the last half of the match, missing many good opportunities to score. The City squad also showed poor combination and missed good opportunities most of the time resorting to long shots. The Wests missed four set-ups in the last half. Credit should be given both net-minders for the fine number of spectacular saves they made. Lambie replaced Glancy in the second half for the Wests while Holmes replaced G. Payne for the City.

Dave Swan refereed.

The teams follow:

Victoria West—Restall; Storey, Reside; Lorandini, Barnes, Stewart; Bell, Robinson, G. Purse, A. Purse and Glancy.

Victoria City—Rowe; Stopher, Halkett; Smith Robins, Gibson; Youson, Barnswell, Gelling, J. Payne and G. Payne.

Dorothy Paget Will Secure New Trainer

Owner of Golden Miller, Beaten Favorite in Grand National, Breaks With Basil Briscoe; Miss Paget Dissatisfied With Manner Horse Was Prepared For Classic

London, April 1.—A break between Dorothy Paget, owner of Golden Miller, beaten favorite in the Grand National, and her trainer, Basil Briscoe, was announced in press reports to-day.

Published reports agreed Golden Miller and other jumpers owned by Miss Paget will leave Briscoe's stables at Newmarket to be trained elsewhere in the future. They pointed out, however, this does not necessarily mean that one of the British turf's most successful owner-trainer partnerships will be dissolved.

It was understood that Briscoe is willing to continue to train Miss Paget's flat-race entries but not the jumpers.

Miss Paget, The Herald says, told Briscoe she was "unsatisfied" with the way Golden Miller was prepared for the Grand National.

Briscoe, the paper says, immediately asked to be relieved of his duties so far as Miss Paget's jumpers were concerned. Miss Paget's star jumper unseated his jockey, Gerry Wilson, both in the Grand National on Friday and the Champion Steeplechase Saturday. In each case he was a 3 to 1 betting favorite.

SCHMELING TO BATTLE BAER

Rothenberg, German Promoter, Claims Fight Will Be Staged in Europe

London, April 1.—Max Baer vs. Max Schmeling for the world heavyweight championship either here or in Rome some time during August—that is the confident prediction of Walter Rothenberg, German sports promoter who staged the Schmeling-Steve Hamas fight at Hamburg March 10.

In London to arrange to have the heavyweights clash at Wembley August 17, Rothenberg Saturday night flashed an official looking document signed by Schmeling and which he hinted was an agreement to meet Baer somewhere in Europe.

"You'll see," smiled Rothenberg. "I'll have the fight here. Baer has agreed. He will receive a guarantee of $200,000."

Rothenberg isn't worrying about the British Boxing Commission's rule which prohibits two foreign fighters from meeting in England.

"I think they would waive that in order to get a championship fight. If not, there is Rome and its wonderful Colisseum. Mussolini wants the fight," he said.

Touring Millers In One-sided Win

Tokio, April 1.—Canada's touring Battleford Millers hung up the fifth consecutive win of their Japan ice hockey tour here yesterday when they defeated the Manshu Medical College team, 14 to 0.

The Canadians, who have not lost a game since starting their tour here two weeks ago, meet the Tumakomai-Oji team on April 3 and three days later wind up their tour against an all-Japan team.

Winnipeg, April 1.—Two eager hockey squads, the pick of the senior crop, to-day laid plans they hope will carry them, as representatives of the west, into the Allan Cup finals at Halifax. Port Arthur Bear Cubs were even favorites with North Battleford Beavers in the final game here to-night that will decide the western championships.

The Ports upset calculations of experts here Saturday night by defeating the Beavers 4 to 3 and tying up the series in their second game. North Battleford won the first game 6 to 2. The winner of to-night's game will qualify to meet eastern titlists in the Dominion Classic.

LIONS BATTLE DETROIT O'S

International Hockey League Champions Coming to Coast For Series

Vancouver, April 1.—Guy Patrick, manager of the champion Vancouver Lions of the North-western Hockey League, announced yesterday that Detroit Olympics, international hockey league champions, had accepted an invitation to play a five game series here within the next two weeks.

The Olympics are due here next Thursday, Patrick said, with the first game set for Friday night and the others the following Monday, Wednesday, and, if necessary, Friday and Monday nights.

The Vancouver hockey mentor added that the series was arranged with the view of making it an annual affair, probably including the Canadian-American League winners next season in a minor league title series.

Seattle, April 1. — Royals of New Westminster, B.C., and the Seattle football club played to a 2 to 2 draw here yesterday in the second game of a series the Sound City eleven has arranged with British Columbia teams.

Sports Writers Favor St. Louis Club to Win National Baseball League

New York, April 1.—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals stand out to-day as the choice of major league baseball experts to retain the National League pennant.

Of the seventy-seven sports editors and baseball writers who participated in the ninth annual Associated Press pennant poll, thirty-nine picked the Cardinals to repeat.

The general belief the race will be a two-team affair was adequately reflected in the poll, for Bill Terry's New York Giants received thirty-one of the remaining thirty-eight first place ballots. The only other clubs likely to figure in the pennant race, as the experts see it, are the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates. Four writers cast their first place ballots for the Cubs and three for the Pirates.

Not only did the Cardinals and Giants together receive seventy of the seventy-seven first place ballots, but they likewise monopolized the second place votes, the Cardinals getting thirty-three of them and the Giants thirty-one. Again Chicago, with six, and Pittsburgh, with seven, were the only other clubs to figure in the balloting.

The experts' vote of confidence in the Cardinals' ability to repeat marks a courteous and understandable about-face on their part. A year ago only fifteen first place ballots went to Frank Frisch's club, which was picked to finish fourth.

Despite the Cardinals' 1934 exploits, strong support for the Giants has developed mainly because of the addition of Dick Bartell, peppery shortstop, to Terry's infield.

West Highland White Terrier

By FRED DODSWORTH

Like the Clydesdale, this game little terrier is an offshoot of the Scottish terrier and Cairn terrier, who is undoubtedly his very near and probably only prototype and whom he should resemble in many respects.

To the Malcolms of Poltalloch much of the credit is given for the [illegible] family bred them for many years to hunt badger and fox on their estate. At that time they were known as white terriers to some, but principally Poltalloch terriers. To-day many refer to them by the latter name. Irrespective of the name at that time, they are now recognized by all the kennel clubs in the world as West Highland white terriers and for short "westies," and in no small measure we are indebted to the Malcolms for the handsome little terriers seen to-day.

The "westie" is a game and hardy little terrier, a faithful companion and wonderful watch dog. Being small, he takes up very little room in an auto or in the home and is a real one-man dog.

GREAT HUNTER

His special avocation is to hunt vermin such as rats and go to ground after the badger, otter and fox, and no day is too long for him to work and no storm too bad for him to face. His small body encases the heart of a lion and his coat is built to stand all weather. For the last few years the "westie" has been somewhat in the background in B.C., which is possibly due to many dog lovers not knowing him. If what is reported in the different dog journals is correct, we are likely to see many of his breed around in the near future. Several importations by eastern fanciers have been made recently, and it is reported that the breed is being taken up by four kennels in Vancouver, B.C.

General appearance—Is that of a small, game, hardy-looking terrier, possessed with no small amount of self-esteem, with a varmity appearance, strongly built, deep in chest and back ribs, straight back and powerful quarters on muscular legs, and exhibiting to a marked degree a great combination of strength and activity. The coat should be about two and a half inches long, white in color, hard, with plenty of soft undercoat, with no tendency to wave or curl. The tail should be as straight as possible and carried not too gaily, and covered with hard hair, but not bushy. The skull should not be too broad, being in proportion to the powerful jaws. The ears should be small and sharp pointed as possible, and carried tightly up and must be absolutely erect. The eyes of moderate size, dark hazel in color, widely placed, with a sharp, bright, intelligent expression. The muzzle should not be too long, powerful and gradually tapering towards the nose. The nose should be black.

SPRINGMEADE PEGGY

Color—Pure white; any other color objectionable.

Coat—Very important, must be double-coated. The outer coat consists of hard hair and free from any curl and about two and a half inches long. The under-coat, which resembles fur, is short, soft and close.

Size—Dogs to weigh from fourteen to eighteen pounds and bitches from twelve to sixteen pounds, and measure eight to twelve inches at the shoulder.

Skull—Should not be too narrow, being in proportion to his powerful jaw, not too long, slightly domed and gradually tapering to the eyes, between which there should be a slight indentation or stop; eyebrows heavy. Head and neck thickly coated with hair.

Eyes—Widely set apart, medium in size, dark hazel in color, slightly sunk in the head, sharp and intelligent, which, looking from under the heavy eyebrows, give a piercing look. Full eyes and also light-colored eyes are objectionable.

Muzzle—Should be nearly equal in length to the rest of the skull, powerful and gradually tapering to the nose, which should be fairly wide. The jaws level and powerful, the teeth square and evenly set, well set and large for the size of the dog. The nose should be black.

Neck—Muscular and nicely set on sloping shoulders.

Chest—Very deep, with breadth in proportion to the size.

Body—Compact, straight back, ribs deep and well arched in upper half of the rib, loins broad and strong, hindquarters strong, muscular and wide across the top.

Legs and feet—Both fore and hind legs should be strong and muscular. The points of the shoulder blades should be closely knitted into the backbone, so that very little movement of them is noticeable when the dog is walking. The hind legs should be short and sinewy. The forelegs should be straight and thickly covered with short, hard hair. The elbows should be close into the body both when moving and standing. The hocks well bent and set in under the body, so as to be fairly close to each other when walking, standing or trotting.

The dog whose picture appears above is champion Springmeade Peggy, owned by Fred Dodsworth, and was bred by Mrs. Van Schaick of Rhode Island. "Peggy" is the outstanding specimen of the kennel, which includes "Craigside Fly Catcher," "Craigside Stonechat" and "Bencruachan White Flame," a son of the imported-Canadian champion, "Dervford Ben," and grandson of the English champion, "Clint Cocktail."

At the Victoria City Kennel Club's annual spring show on May 18, and which is being sponsored by the Junior W.A. of the Jubilee Hospital, it is anticipated that the largest entry in many years of this breed will be on view. Irving C. Acreman of San Francisco has been appointed to judge all breeds.

The large silver challenge cup donated by Spratts Patent Ltd. of London, England, will again be up for competition. This beautiful trophy will be awarded to the dog winning the honor of best of all breeds in the show.

English Football Race Between Two

Arsenal and Sunderland Go Into Final Drive With Chance For First Division Title; Gunners Lucky Against Aston Villa on Saturday

London, April 1.—The race for English soccer honors has become more clearly defined and as the twenty-two clubs go into the final drive, Arsenal and Sunderland appear as chief contestants for the championship.

Both clubs won Saturday, while Manchester City and Sheffield Wednesday, strong threats a week ago, went down to defeat.

Arsenal went into a lucky lead against Aston Villa two minutes after the kick-off. Drake sent in a straight shot which Morton failed to gather, Beasley dashing up and kicking into an empty net. The 50,000 spectators at Villa Park were treated to another thrill a few minutes later when the Gunners' centre was fouled in the penalty area and Bastin scored from the kick. Drake added another before half-time. Changing over the Villans fought hard and Houghton reduced the margin direct from a free kick.

CONTINUE REVIVAL

Leicester's revival continues. The City, playing at home, defeated Liverpool 3 to 1. Liddle and Maw sent the Foxhunters into a lead at half-time, O'Callaghan adding a third later, while Johnson averted a shutout a few minutes from time.

With a magnificent shot from the half-way mark, Hall, the left-back, opened Sunderland's account against Leeds at Roker Park. This was the only scoring in the first forty-five minutes but Gurney added two later to complete the splurge.

Manchester City's 3 to 0 defeat at Huddersfield probably cost the Maine Road eleven a chance at the championship. Huddersfield, with a versatile, powerful attack, scored through Richardson, Anderson and Lythgoe. Preston North End surprised Sheffield Wednesday by winning 2 to 1. Hooper drew first blood for the cup finalists and Maxwell equalized before half time. Preston obtained the winning counter through Maxwell.

COSTLY DEFEAT

Tottenham Hotspurs came another cropper against West Bromwich Albion, for whom W. G. Richardson scored the only goal of the game. The Spurs now have only a faint hope of remaining in the first division next year.

Two London clubs, Brentford and West Ham United, are fighting for the honor of entering the first division next season. The Bees treated 10,000 fans at Turf Moor to some brilliant footwork, Hobson opening the scoring against Burnley five minutes from the interval. Scott and Hopkins netted later in the game.

The Hammers edged out a victory over Sheffield United by the odd goal in three. Magnall headed West Ham's first counter after one minute's play and Barclay equalized after thirty-five minutes. Magnall restored the Londoners' lead in the second half after Barclay, the United inside-right, had fractured his collar bone.

Boton's defeat at home by Bradford proved costly, as the Wanderers dropped into third position in the league. Each side scored once in the first half, Meek tallying for Bradford and G. T. Taylor equalizing just before the rest period. Lewis clinched the issue.

Charlton's defeat at Valley Parade by Northampton was one of the surprise of the day, but the Londoners have a wide margin at the top of the southern section, third division. Charlton attacked throughout the game but failed to penetrate Northampton's stout defence. Bell headed in the visitors' counter five minutes from the end.

The shuffle came about as result of Stockport's 1 to 0 defeat of the league-leading Tranmere. Doncaster laced Carlisle United 3 to 0 and Chester overcame Mansfield Town 3 to 2.

Here are the unofficial figures:

Boston - Toronto, four games, 42,482.

Montreal - Chicago, two games, 27,000.

Canadiens-Rangers, two games, 20,000.

Mexico, D.F., April 1.—Sixto Escobar, Puerto Rican, whom many boxing experts consider the outstanding bantamweight of the world, was soundly beaten by Juan Zurita, young Mexican featherweight, in a ten-rounder Saturday night. Zurita won every round, although he failed to score a knockdown.

The Mexican weighed 129 pounds, Escobar 121.

Notre Dame Cagers Beaten By Ottawa

Ottawa, April 1.—Fighting from behind with characteristic gameness in the final few minutes Ottawa Basketball Marlowes, hosts to Notre Dame, defeated Notre Dame by the score of 34 to 32 in the first of a two-game, total-point series in the Canadian senior basketball playdowns here Saturday night. The local senior city champions will carry a two-point margin into the second game to Montreal next Saturday.

TORONTO-MAROONS IN HOCKEY FINAL

usually turned aside by the brilliant goalkeeper.

After Bun Cook had matched that goal another break went against Rangers when Butch Keeling had an open net, but a rolling puck too high on his stick made him hoist it over the cage into the crowd.

The first period was almost over before Kerr was beaten again by Russ Blinco, who picked up Dave Trottier's pass and slid the puck underneath the stretching goalkeeper.

Shifty Ott Heller and Lynn Patrick combined for the only goal of the second period. After Heller's rush was halted Patrick picked up the loose puck, eluded Wentworth, and drove it in.

Early in the third period Trottier made it 3 to 2 on a long pass from Earl Robinson after Blinco started the play. His hard angle-drive from close-in gave Kerr no chance.

CONNOLLY SCORES

Undismayed, Rangers used four forwards and were rewarded when Bert Connolly shook off Allan Shields and scored, from Max Murray Murdoch and Patrick assisted.

Rangers kept coming in wave after wave, but the closest they came to scoring was when Cecil Dillon struck the post from a scrimmage. Lionel Conacher's coolness did much to save the worried Maroons as Patrick kept five forwards on with five minutes to go, then yanked out his goalkeeper in the last two. Conacher's long lifts kept the puck out long enough for Maroons to organize for the surging Blueshirts.

The Cooks-Boucher line was the best on the ice. Their pivoting, criss-cross passing game was always menacing to Maroon defenders, and brought the best goal of the game.

Bill and Frank Boucher drew the defence while Bun parked at the goal-crease in time to take Bill's pass and backflip it between his legs for the score. Alex Connell was caught cold on the play as Bun's back was to the goal when the shot was made.

Maroons came through the game without injury, and will be at full strength for the opening game Thursday.

Strength In Rails Features Trading On Wall St. Board

Associated Press

New York, April 1.—Rallying tendencies in rails helped to bolster the stock market to-day, but speculative enthusiasm was lukewarm and the activity held around its recent low level. Most morning advances were cancelled or halved in the final hour.

The close was steady. Transfers approximated 400,000 shares.

The decision of the I.C.C. to give the eastern part of their desired rate increase seemingly brought some optimistic buying in this group.

Improvement in transportation loans of the secondary lines also aided the bond division.

Cheerful remarks by Chairman Myron C. Taylor at the annual U.S. Steel Corporation meeting may have been offset by a decline in steel production of 1.7 per centage points to 44.4 per cent of capacity.

The Reign dropped above its new establishment point, but other gold exchanges were firm. Grains and cotton dipped.

Shares of Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific and Delaware and Hudson held gains up to a point or so. Coca-Cola made a new high with a point advance and American Bank Note stepped up 2. Issues in American Telephone, Western Union, U.S. Steel, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Eastman, Kodak, Johns-Manville, American Can and American Tobacco B were fairly firm. Dehn Aluminum moved up a point, but National Biscuit reflected labor difficulties by a further decline of more than a point to a new 1934-35 low.

Among shares of Canadian companies, International Nickel and Canadian Pacific ruled about steady. On the curb, Lake Shore got up a small fraction, Dominion Government bonds were quiet and narrow.

INDUSTRIALS RULE LOWER

Canadian Press

Toronto, April 1. — The industrial section of the Toronto Stock Exchange opened the month with a dribble of selling that sent prices to a lower price level, losses appearing mainly in small fractions. Bell Telephone was particularly soft, dropping three points to 122½.

Nickel led the list for volume, and also closing with a fraction on the up side, while small losses were registered for Brazilian and C. P. R. The oils also presented a firm front, gains outnumbering losses on fair volume.

Aggregate volume was under 5,000 shares. A few of the foods worked higher. Canadian Car and Foundry stocks were up ½ to ¾ on the report that orders might be placed soon for railway equipment on the financial backing of the Federal government.

The power stocks were off.

Winnipeg Futures Display Weakness In Light Trading

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, April 1.—Poised between two major conflicting market factors, wheat futures on the Winnipeg grain exchange to-day appeared hesitant. After a quiet session, prices closed unchanged to ¼ cent lower, May at 89 and July 84⅝ cents.

A fractional advance at the opening was the market's only feature to-day. Exports comprised only a few scattered lots.

Traders were unable to account for weakness at Chicago, where prices most of the day were down a cent.

Liverpool, influenced by lower sterling rate in currency exchanges and Russian offers on Canadian and Argentine wheats, closed ⅝-¾d higher. Buenos Aires reacted from opening fractional gains and at noon was unchanged to ¼ cent lower.

Cash and coarse grains idled.

Chicago, April 1 (Associated Press) —Uncertainty over 1935 domestic crop prospects and in regard to foreign political and monetary affairs gave a general downward bent to wheat prices to-day.

There was a decided absence of aggressive buying. Houses with southwestern connections were conspicuous as seller of wheat in small lots.

Wheat closed easy, ⅝-1⅛ under Saturday's finish, May 94⅝-⅞. Corn was ⅜ off to ⅜ up, May 60⅛-⅜. Oats unchanged to ¼ lower, and provisions varied from 15 cents decline to 5 cents advance.

BOND ISSUES ARE IMPROVED

Associated Press

New York, April 1.—The bond market divided its attention between secondary railroad issues and new financing to-day.

While gains in most cases were modest, lower-priced carrier issues quickly attracted attention by maintaining and extending the improvement made Saturday, shortly before the interstate commerce commission granted emergency rate increases.

U.S. Governments were quiet but strong.

MILL SOON AT YMIR MINES

Construction Work Will Soon Be Under Way, Says Announcement

Construction work on the 100-ton mill at Ymir Consolidated Gold Mines Limited, will be under way shortly, it was announced yesterday by Robert McCorkell, president of the company.

He stated that J. E. McClonkey of the McClonkey Milling & Mining Service had returned to Vancouver after a week spent at the company's property working out mill details with O. D. Frith, resident engineer for Ymir Consolidated Gold Mines Limited, and Henry Doelle, the company's consulting engineer.

Mr. McCorkell stated that the plant will be all flotation of modern design with concrete floors, drop sidings, metal roof and large enough to allow for an increase in treating equipment from 100 tons to 200 tons. The ball mill will be an Allis-Chalmers of 150-tons daily capacity. The crushing plant will be a separate unit situated at the electric haulage terminal and will house both the coarse and secondary crushers and 500-ton ore bins.

Company officials expect construction work to be complete by June 15. The mill will turn over with an initial capacity of between 100 to 125 tons daily.

Mine development at both the Ymir and Goodenough mines of the company is being pushed forward to correspond with mill construction. The new Ingersoll-Rand compressor has been shipped from the factory and another car load of mine machinery left Vancouver on Thursday. Timbering of the main raise at Ymir is progressing rapidly and miners and timbering crews are already at work on the upper levels.

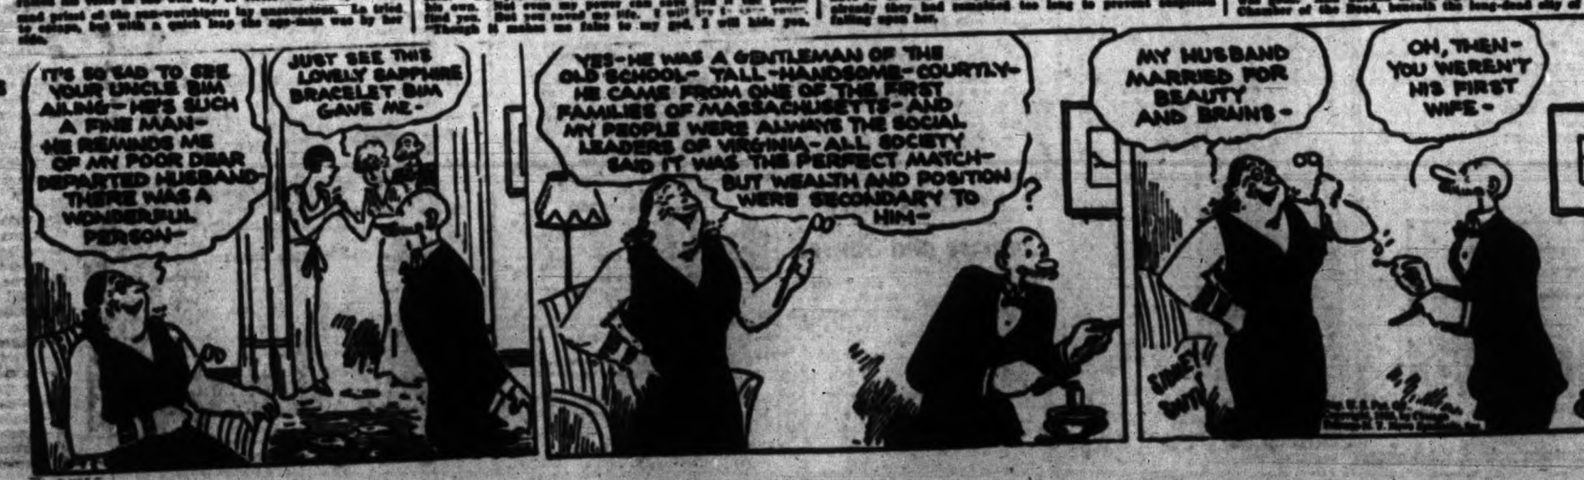
Return Of Tarzan

Then Tarzan drew, rising himself like a lion, and placed his foot upon the prostrate body of his antagonist. He raised his voice to the wild cry of victory of the apes. The dead priest of the man-worshipers lay unconscious. He tried to escape, but with a quick leap the ape-man was by her side.

"What do you intend to do with me?" she asked. "Nothing," he replied. "But you can lead me out of this place to freedom." "I am the High Priestess of the Sun Temple," she said. "But you have been chosen by the Flaming God as his own. Not even my power can save you if the people find you. But you saved my life. I will try to ..... you." "Though it makes me false to my god, I will hide you. Come! For if we are found together we shall both be killed." Tarzan protested, saying she must not take the risk. He would fight his way to freedom. She would not have it so and finally persuaded him to follow her, for already they had remained too long to prevent suspicion falling upon her.

She led him through long corridors of gloom. At last they came to a small chamber into which a little light filtered. "Here will think of everything for you here," she said. "They would not dare! I will return after it is dark." She was gone. And Tarzan, of the Apes was left alone in the Chamber of the Dead, beneath the long-dead city of Opar.

The Gumps



Do You Think Wife's Place Is in the Home? — Dorothy Dix — Question Giving Reputation Of Hypocrite

A LONG TIME AGO, dwellers in the Dark Ages, some Bluebeard of a husband promulgated the theory that the ideal wife was one who stayed put in her own home and whose every interest was centred within the four walls of her home.

Strangely enough, the great majority of men still cling to this superstition. They feel that ingrowing domesticity is a woman's highest virtue and that a model wife spends her days sewing and preserving and canning, and her evenings darning socks instead of facing forth to enjoy herself.

Young husbands are particularly sold on the notion that wives should be incarcerated for life in the home jail and they are shocked to find out that the young girls they have married desire any other diversion besides tending the family treadmill. No woman is anathema to them more than the one they call a "gadder," and they look with a dark, suspicious eye on women's clubs and think that those who attend them would be better employed at home making pies than they are in listening to literary or political discussions, or asking what's trumps.

Of course, no man could stand being shut up in a house continually. One day of it drives him mad. He knows he needs diversion, change, to get out into the open, to go new places, see new people, hear new things. It puts fresh pep into him and gives him a clearer view of his own problems. But he thinks that with women it is different. They don't need change or diversion. They are perfectly happy, or at least they ought to be perfectly happy, just staying at home and performing upon the same old furniture and looking at the same old walls and doing the same daily tasks over and over every day of their lives.

Now, of course, in the old days when women cooked on wood fires and ground their own meal and parched their own coffee and sewed by hand, there was good and sufficient reason for a woman never to stick her nose out of her door. It took all of her time to get the work done necessary to making her family comfortable. But nowadays, with homes equipped with every sort of labor-saving device, a woman is lacking in ginumption and management who cannot do all of her work and still have plenty of time in which to play.

As a matter of fact, instead of men objecting to their wives' stepping out, they should encourage them to do so, for they would thereby save themselves from many of the matrimonial ills of which they most complain. Being bored, for instance. Undoubtedly the reason so many men wander away from their own firesides is that they are in search of more entertaining conversation than they find there.

But how can they expect a woman to be gay and witty and amusing if she has been shut up in a house all day, with no one to talk to but the baby and the cat? If she has seen nothing but what she could behold from a window and hasn't had even a chance at getting a new idea, what could she talk about except sterilized milk and the price of butcher's meat? For otherwise would it be if she spent the afternoon shopping or at a matinee or a tea, or playing bridge, and came home with a budget of gossip and amusing stories.

In one of Shaw's plays there is a gay lady whose husband always overlooked her little affairs because she was always so entertaining and amusing when she came back from one of her adventures. Without going so far as that, certainly we must admit that any woman who has interests outside of her family is far more interesting to live with than the one who doesn't know or care what is happening outside of her household.

And nagging. The reason women nag, the reason they harp on a single string and can never let bygones be bygones; the reason a wife will keep reminding her husband for thirty years of the money he lost a friend when they were first married, is that they have no few interests. They stick to old things because they have no new ones. Keep a woman entertained and amused and you will cure her of nagging every time.

Nor is there any other such efficacious remedy for ill health among women as for them to have plenty of interests and amusements outside the home. Half the invalids are women who boast that they are housebodies, that they never go anywhere and they devote all of their time to their families. Then give them plenty of leisure in which to think about themselves and develop symptoms, but give them something new to think about, something exciting to do, and they take up their beds and walk. There is no better way for a man to save himself doctor's bills than to keep his wife on her tiptoes.

Furthermore, men have been incredibly stupid in opposing their wives belonging to clubs, for there is nothing like a club or a cause to take a woman's mind off her husband's faults and shortcomings. Every woman is a born reformer, and the wise man lets his wife work off her reformation complex on the Hottentots or the state instead of himself.

Of course, a woman's place is in the home most of the time, but she is a better wife and mother if she gets away from it for a little diversion and relaxation every day.

Uncle Wiggily's April Fool

By HOWARD R. GARIS

When Uncle Wiggily did down the stair banister rolling to his breakfast in the hollow stump bungalow one morning he did not pick up the newspaper which Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy always put beside his bowl of cabbage cereal.

"What's the matter, Uncle Wig?" asked Baby Beauty, twinkling her little pink nose.

"Aren't you going to read your paper?"

"Not this morning," he answered.

"But you always read your paper, want on the orphan rabbit. "Why don't you now?"

"Because this is April Fool day," said Mr. Longears, pushing aside the cup of carrot coffee and the sugar bowl. "Last year some of you little bunnies fooled me by putting an old newspaper at my place. I didn't know I was reading an old paper until I was half way through it and then it wasn't April Fool day at all. I'm not going to be fooled now."

NOT FOOLED BY PAPER

"You won't be fooled by this paper," said Nurse Jane. "It's this morning's paper and I just brought it in. The paper boy hasn't left the other one yet. It was all right, so he began to read it, saying:

"Well somebody might have fooled me."

"Why don't you put cream in your carrot coffee, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Julia, as she poured her father.

"Ah, ha, you little rascal!" he said to her laughing. "I believe you have put sour milk in this cup of coffee, but I'll take my chance in the sugar bowl. I'll take just one lump. That's what happened last April Fool day."

"Oh, truly there's no sour milk in your coffee, Uncle Wiggily," said Julia.

Uncle Wiggily took a little taste.

"It's all right," he said, "no sour milk. Why what happened to all the April Fool tricks you bunnies used to play on me?"

"Put some sugar in your coffee," said Custer, another boy bunny.

"Ha! you want me to get salted!" chuckled his father.

"Truly, no," said Custer. "There is no salt in the sugar bowl."

Uncle Wiggily took a little taste. It was sugar all right and then he sweetened his coffee and drank it up for he wasn't fooled there. The rabbit children were laughing among themselves and Mr. Longears felt sure they were trying to think up some new way to April Fool him. All of a sudden, as the rabbit gentleman got up out of his chair, Baby Beauty called:

"Look behind you, Uncle Wig!"

NOT FOOLING SPILLED

"Oh, no! You don't fool me that way!" said Mr. Longears, for he didn't turn to look behind him, for when he had done that last year he had seen nothing, but this time it would have been better for him to have looked behind him, for Nurse Jane was coming in with some hot pancake batter for him and she turned his life and upset some of it on his coat tails.

"Oh, Uncle Wig! Why didn't you look behind when I told you?"

"I thought you were fooling me!" said the rabbit gentleman.

"I wasn't!" said Beauty, as she hopped to school with the others. Then Uncle Wiggily hopped out to work for an adventure in the woods by my Aunt Dinty Gill, the squirrel lady, who lives in a hollow tree. Guess what happened to Uncle Wiggily? Guess guess the Bob Cat, Uncle Wiggily's April Fool story.

"Oh, no! You can't April Fool me," laughed Mr. Longears, but a minute later when some rustling in the Bob Cat's rabbit, made him jump, every hair on his back stood up straight and that, along with the Polar Bear, was the greatest April Fool you ever in your life. It was the Bob Cat who was fooled, after all. And if you can guess why and why the Polar Bear was the most surprised April Fool you ever in your life, you can tell the story to the rusty cat with the rusty day's tail take it away from her and give it back to him. Then I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily's April shower.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

TUESDAY, APRIL 2, 1935

According to astrology this is an uncertain day in planetary direction, but benefic aspects are strong. It is primarily a time for beginners.

Merchants will profit at this time, when there will be increased demand for goods, sale of the home and for many kinds of machinery.

Women should be cautious to-day, when there may be obstacles in the way of the performance of duty. It is wise to keep a strong domination over the nerves and the temper.

This is an propitious day for educators and for students. The stars smile upon literary pursuits and seem to promise startling discoveries. Contributions made to the progress of humanity.

This is an unlucky day for love affairs, when both sexes are inclined to be changeable and self-assertive. The stars discourage overmuch ambitious and then for love affairs that depend upon deep, deep, true affection will be found to be false. Marriage at this planetary day. The stars encourage the spiritual temple of humanity.

This is a fortunate day for promoters and speculators, but the gains may be small. There will be only a brief period of good luck.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the energy of a year of good fortune that will be attainable from sport lovers and money makers.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly persistent in achieving their ambitions and desires. Subjects of the sign of Aries usually are genial and kindly.

Nathaniel Murray Butler, college president, was born on this day, 1862. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Thomas Jefferson, third President of the United States, 1743, and Hans Christian Anderson, Danish writer, 1805.

Tankers Sail With Non-union Workers

Four Vessels Cleared From San Francisco To-day; Threats of Gas Shortage in North Diminished

San Francisco, April 1.—With four tank ships already clear, the oil companies apparently were ready to-day with additional non-union crews to dispatch other vessels through the strike blockade that has tied up more than thirty craft at Pacific Coast ports.

At least four others were expected to sail soon, and the operators prepared to put more ships back into service.

The special mediation board planned to open formal sessions here to-day in an effort to reach a settlement of the strike, which centres around the demand of union seamen for preferential employment.

Clearing of the tankers diminished threats of a shortage of gasoline and fuel oil in the Pacific northwest. Tankers already sailed with non-union crews were the Tejon and District of Columbia from Portland, the Frank H. Buck from Martinez and the La Placentia from San Pedro.

Those expected to sail shortly were the Revenue from Martinez, Mojave from Portland and Los Angeles, and Uinacrton from Los Angeles.

At Seattle it was believed the oil companies would ask police protection to unload and move their ships.

At San Pedro 600 members of the Sealers' and Painters' Union voted to join the tanker strike.

Peaceful picketing was reported to continue in practically all ports, but there were no reports of violence.

SAYS EAST IS MORE HOPEFUL

A. C. Burdick of Pacific Salvage Company Home After Two-month Trip

After a two months' absence in Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal, New York, Chicago and San Francisco, A. C. Burdick, managing director of the Pacific Salvage Company, was back at his desk in Victoria this morning, sorting out a huge pile of mail and receiving visits from his business associates in the city.

"Everyone in the east, both in Canada and the United States, is much more cheerful than when I was there last," Mr. Burdick stated. "I think they have reason to be, too, for things are certainly much improved and the people are looking for better times this year and in 1936."

Mr. Burdick spent some time in Ottawa and on several occasions visited the House of Commons to hear the business of the country being conducted.

"Mr. Bennett, I believe, is quite a sick man and they miss him very much," he said. "Rest, however, will probably enable him to resume his duties. Members look for prorogation at Easter and an election probably in September."

For ten days Mr. Burdick was in New York. He visited officials of the Merritt, Chapman and Scott Corporation, one of the largest salvage companies in the world. It was this company that a few weeks ago hauled the ill-fated liner Morro Castle from the sand off the New Jersey coast and towed her to Brooklyn, where her future will be decided. It was a contract job, Mr. Burdick stated.

Travelling by fast train across the continent from Chicago to San Francisco, Mr. Burdick spent four days in the Golden Gate metropolis, saw the progress made on the two great bridges across the bay and then traveled north to Seattle, arriving in Victoria this morning from Seattle.

DR. ANDREWS COMING HERE

Seattle, April 1.—Roy Chapman Andrews, noted explorer, conqueror of the Gobi desert and other far places, may enjoy fossils as a hobby but when it came to a wife, he let beauty be his guide.

With his bride, the lovely former Mrs. Franklin B. Christmas, who was born in Chattanooga, Tenn., he was at the Olympic Hotel yesterday as part of the honeymoon. They had come from their home in New York by way of the Panama Canal because Mrs. Andrews wanted to see the west coast. She stopped in Hollywood to visit motion picture friends while he came on ahead to keep Spokane lecture dates, and she joined him here yesterday afternoon.

"No, she's not an explorer, yet, but she's going to be," said Dr. Andrews. "We're both wanderers. She has traveling widely and lived much of the time in Europe. Her travels haven't been in the wild places mine have—so far—"

NOT PLANNING TRIP

Dr. Andrews says he is not contemplating any far-flung exploring at present.

"I didn't get married to go off into Central Asia or somewhere for three or four years," said he. "I may make some short trips into Central Africa, or some such place. But I don't make plans. We like to do what we want, when we want to."

The boiling pot of Central Asia spoiled his preparations for co-operative explorations with Russia into Russo-Chinese-Turkestan. He has closed his home in China, and for the time being will devote himself to his present job as director of the Museum of Natural History in New York where a new planetarium is to be opened this fall.

Also he is completing his series "Random Reminiscences of an Explorer" for The Cosmopolitan, and there is other writing to be done.

Believe Ship Had Foundered

Halifax, April 1.—One disabled ship made port here to-day as fears grew for the safety of a second craft—the long-missing Gloucester schooner Arthur D. Storey.

The rudderless Belgian freighter Jean Jadot came into harbor behind the salvage tug Foundation Franklin, which picked her up 170 miles south of Nova Scotia last week after she had been disabled in a storm. She may be towed to New York for repairs.

Of the Storey and her eight men there was no news. Since leaving Belleoram, Nfld., for her home port, twenty-nine days ago, she had not been hailed, and her long absence aroused belief she had foundered.

HEAVYWEIGHT DESTROYER READY

The U.S.S. Aylwin, first of the new heavy armed destroyers being built for the United States Navy has been commissioned for duty with the fleet. The ship is shown at the Philadelphia Navy Yard where, in the six months since she was launched, she has been fully equipped for war service.

FRENCH FLIER DIES IN CRASH

Beauvais, France, April 1.—Robert Bajac, thirty-six, one of France's youngest war aviators, and chief pilot of the French European commercial service, was killed to-day in a plane crash.

During the war Bajac brought down three German planes and was himself wounded during an air battle.

Vancouver, April 1. — Canadian National Steamships announce eleven sailings to Alaska this summer on its twin-screw ships Prince George and Prince Rupert.

The Rupert will be first out in the tourist run to Skagway on June 17, arriving at its northern terminus June 21. Other sailing dates are: June 24, July 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, August 5, 12, 19 and 26. The Rupert will also make the last run to Alaska, arriving at Skagway August 30, and returning to Vancouver September 4.

As during 1934, this summer's Alaska trips will be nine days in duration for the round trip, with two whole days in port at Skagway for side trips to the storied interior country.

This summer's schedule is in addition to the four special cruises of the luxurious 7,000-ton Princess Robert, which will make eleven-day cruises to Alaska on June 28, July 12 and 26, and August 9. The cruising Robert will add Sitka, historic Mackenzie Rock and a day-long sail through Gardner Canal and Douglas Channel to the regular ports of call.

For the first time in a number of years the commodore of the C.N.S. fleet, Capt. H. E. Hedden, will not be in command of the Prince George. He will transfer to the Robert for the summer. Capt. Neil MacLean will be in command of the Prince George and Capt. Edward Mabbs will have the Prince Rupert. Last year Capt. MacLean had the Rupert.

Bill to Safeguard New Zealand Ships

Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's

Wellington, N.Z., April 1.—A private member's bill designed to safeguard the New Zealand shipping industry from competition of subsidized United States lines was given first reading in the House of Representatives to-day.

Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, Minister of Finance, said it would be unwise for the government to accept the bill at the moment, as the problem was now the subject of negotiations between the governments of New Zealand, Australia and the United States. Prime Minister G. W. Forbes would take the matter up with the British Government when he reaches London shortly for the Royal Jubilee, he added.
